I miss that painkiller. Icecold was king of the jokes. Sean & Tollfree group. Professor was just plain funny and he and painkiller had some great battles. Where have all the good guys gone?

Oh boy is this an old argument.. I dont even want to get started.
Search google this has been talked about forever in here. Some of the most successful key down guys have used 18 feet and are successful talking skip and shootouts. Truth is the swr of your antenna will depend on your counterpoise. Oh well if your antenna is tuned properly the amount of coax may not matter.

A challenge to all fags and other self-righteous people: WE DARE YOU TO READ THESE SAD LETTERS THAT HONEST FAGS SENT TO WBC.
Unlike the hypocrites of Exodus International and other phony so-called "ex-gays," here's the testimony of honest fags. Unlike money-grubbing heretics like Jerry Falwell and the folks at Focus on the Family who think if they lie often enough about Jesus Christ and can get enough money from enough simpletons, then they can deceive homosexuals into believing they've repented, here are the confessions of sincere fags. As the publican in Luke 18:13 & 14, so is this fag: "And the publican, standing afar off, would not lift up so much as his eyes unto heaven, but smote upon his breast, saying, God be merciful to me a sinner. I tell you, this man went down to his house justified rather than the other: for every one that exalteth himself shall be abased; and he that humbleth himself shall be exalted." His testimony reads as follows:

"Hi Rev. Phelps, or whoever reads these:

I trapped myself into faggotry when I was 19 years old. While I have to take responsibility for this myself, I can see how our modern American values made it so easy to turn myself into a fag. I can't be the only one who got trapped this way.

In an example of kindness that can kill, society seems to no longer view the sin of sodomy as a sin. Instead, the view now common is that the temptation to commit buggery is an intrinsic immutable personal characteristic, as much as having brown eyes or red hair. Therefore it can't be wrong, so the theory goes.

When I first felt these temptations, I learned not that I was a sinner but that I had 'awakened' to my own sexual identity. I should 'rejoice in this characteristic that makes me the individual I am.' This clever lie not only gave me permission to commit these sins but also indeed put considerable pressure on me to make these acts the mantle of my existence and adopt a life that revolved around the act of buggery. Because after all, to repent and turn from this sin would be 'denying the reality of my identity' and 'only living a lie.'

With the help of an 'understanding' society, I adopted this view. Occasionally I sought help (in the wrong places) for the nagging notion that this was all a horrible, horrible mistake. The apostate clergy of modern psychology told me that my aversion to my 'sexual identity' was wrong, I should let go of my inhibitions and go enjoy the revolving door sex culture of anonymous gay sex.

I reached a depth of despair at my first (and last) 'gay pride' parade. I saw the most revolting attributes of homosexuality flaunted as if they were the hallmark achievements of mankind. Vileness, promiscuity, perversity, and inverted morality (not to mention logic) were all hailed in an orgy of celebration. It was like a bad science fiction horror movie of Hades come to Earth.

As the years passed, it was increasingly more difficult to suppress the growing sense of revulsion I had to those wretched beings with whom I had cast my lot. I left the city every year on the day of the 'gay pride' orgy. I tried to distance myself from the amoral antilogical licentious human garbage that collectively calls itself the 'gay community.'

Currently I still feel the call of this sin, though I no longer act on it. The final chapter of my odyssey of escape from the clever lies of an immutable fag nature is perhaps not yet written. But I pray to God for redemption. I'm not yet sure of the state of my salvation, but if nothing else, I have turned my back on fag sin and all the evil that comes with it.

I used to think you people were evil and crazy and persecuted the righteous. But I am beginning to understand that I have had it exactly backwards."

Testimony 2
"If it's ok with you, I would like you guys to post my story on your site like you did with that other guy. Here is my story below, feel free to correct any spelling. I am not afraid to have my name in there, so feel free to print it.
My name is F* G. I am now 55 and I have AIDS, my reward for a life of faggotry and promiscuity. In my lifetime I have had nearly every venereal disease you could imagine, but none of those could stop me from my life of sin.

I got involved with sodomy at a very young age. My neighbor was an upstanding person in the community. Everyone loved him and his wife. At church he was almost a celebrity. But what I found out that his wife had not, is that he was a faggot, leading a hidden lifestyle. One weekend, my parents thought it would be a good idea for me to go camping with my neighbor while they were out of town. It was a horrible mistake for all of us.

Alone with this pervert in the woods, there was nobody to stop him from exposing me to sodomy and all manners of perversion. Years later, those events damaged my psychological development in high school. I could never maintain a healthy relationship with females. But things got worse in college.

When I was a senior in college, I met a professor that was a faggot. He began telling me that what I was feeling was "normal", and that those who opposed this sort of behavior were neandethals and backward. Soon we were having a relationship. It was then that I had considered myself gay.

What I want people to know at this point is that the gay lifestyle is not some kind of mirror image of the heterosexual lifestyle. It involves multiple partners, anonymous sex, and many perversions. It seemed that I needed to experience more and more perverted activities to be satisfied. Among the ones I could mention here are pedophilia and beastiality.

So I continued in my life of faggotry, never truly happy. I claimed I was proud of it; I marched in parades and chanted the slogans. But inside I knew there was something wrong. From the first time I called myself gay, I had always turned to drugs to take away the pain of my sin. If I ran out of money for drugs, I thought nothing wrong about going to the nearest rest stop or public restroom, and offering my services to strangers. Nothing the gay movement could tell me could make me happy the way the drugs did. They said that the lifestyle was becoming more accepted, that we were going to be accepted by the country as normal. But I knew I was not normal, and I suspected many others know this too.

Still I was involved in the lifesyle until March 24, 1999. I had in and out of doctors' offices for years, diagnosed and treated for ghonorrea, scabies, and lice. I thought I had hit the bottom when diagnosed with herpes in 1995. But on that day in 1999, I learned that I had tested positive for HIV. The worse thing is that with the lifestyle I was leading, I could not tell you who gave me that virus.

The reason why I am writing this, and using my real name, is because I want everyone to know the truth about his lifestyle. I no longer care about what happens to me. I will be dead soon, and my family disowned me long ago. I am ashamed of what I did to them and god. When I was lying in the hospital bed about a month ago, I learned that what I had done for years was a sin.

Now I felt better knowing that I was right to doubt myself back then. I have repented to the Lord and know that while my sins are now washed clean, my duty in my final months on Earth is to warn the world, especially young males, about the danger of homosexuality.

There is NOTHING normal about it. The media tries to portray faggots as being entertaining, funny, and just like everyone else. But that could not be further from the truth. I know because I have been there. Not a day goes by that I don't regret my sins of the past. If just one afflicted person reads this and changes there ways before having to suffer the pain that I have, then I will consider my holy mission accomplised.

The 102" whip is not tunable except by adding or taking away the spring from the ball mount. As I said the 102 never was a perfect match anyway with about 36 ohms of radiation resistance instead of the desired 50 ohms for a near perfect match. Since the 102 is not a perfect match the coax length does matter but if it did match close to perfectly then coax length would not matter. As for the "counterpoise", that is just another name for the ground plane. Yes the counterpoise/ground plane is important but any metal car or truck body has enough metal to form a good ground plane. The vehicle body is half of the antenna and the 102" plus 6" ball and spring is the other half of your center fed, half-wave dipole antenna system. As far as SWR depending on the "counterpoise", the antenna must be mounted, as I said, with plenty of metal all around it or to put it another way in the middle of your vehicle roof to give it a good ground plane/counterpoise. If people enjoy getting their 102 to "flatline" by using 18 feet of coax and having good performance that's fine but their antenna is not going to work any better than if they had the proper half-wave length of coax and the small amount of reflected RF should not hurt their system.

Hmm...

I use a 102, But I mounted it to a bolt through the rear metal bumper. I did add a Heavy ground wire to both the case of the CB and to the Bumper connecting both to the frame.

I tested my SWR at the time, and its really low 1.2.1 on ch1 and about 1.4.1 on ch 40 I do not have a spring on it. I used to, but I couldn't get the swr down below 1.5.1 on high side of the channel list (34-40) so I removed it.
I will have to measure the length of the coax.

As for the base, its 1.2.1 all around unless its the uppers added by the channel kit (I never go there anyway... Its dead around here) And its run from the Base to the mast with the Really thick low loss coax.

From what I've read, It looks like I'll have to get the Base unit "tuned down" to match it to a amp.
As for the mobile, I'm looking at a high drive unit, so that I can keep it stock, but the price of those little RM amps is so good, I may have it tuned down as well.

Thanks for the help!

Hi Twist.

I've been busy today so no chance to turn on the radio yet.. I seen some of that gator attack syndrome on the tee vee tube. Reckon those bucket mouths are finally getting sick of humans encroaching on their stomping grounds?!?

We've now had rain every day since last weds night, but not like the eastern sea board has been getting, thankfully, ours has been a non-stop drizzle (best kind of rain) so far. knock on wood.

100 watts should so it. The mini 40 watts might do it. The 100 Palomars works well for a cheap amp.

I use a palomar MOD V in my mobile which will dead key around 17 watts and swing to about 120 watts(at max power) with a Midland 13-882C driving it. I did put a mod kit in it to dead key about 2 watts swinging to 11 watts. My antenna is a 4 1/2 ft. skipshooter mounted on top of an aluminum camper shell. I've used this system since 97 with good results.

Except there are medications available for hemmeroids. You LIKE enemas, which is why you posted it in the first place. Also putting something in your ass would tend to make them flare up worse. If you gave up anal sex and enimas, get up off your ass and get a job, they would go away on there own.

Yeah, he called me a bigot for being against child molesting and bestiality,

I am far more educated than you will ever be. I have what is called freestanding intellegence. An IQ test showed me that I am just a few points shy of genius even with a lack of formal education.
Of course you are a general in the Salvation Army.

If your IQ was of the stature of a genius, you would at least be able to spell "intelligence" and in your case you misspelled it "intellegence" Perhaps it was a slip and an honest mistake but I would suspect you would proofread your post especially when bragging.

Interestingly that you talk about that sort of lifestyle so much. I would suspect that you're the one who is queer Scheissman. Since you obviously so obsessed about it, it would make even a psychologist wonder about your OCD.

That's a much better radio than the 2510, no?

I have a room full of Texas stations as I type this...is that a good thing?

Anyone know about this type of setup? My understanding is I must use 75 ohm coax from the ground up to the "T" then to each antenna. Is this true? Anyone have a formula?

Hello Carly:

No you use the 75 ohm coax from the Tee to the antennas. You can use odd mulitibles of (RG11 Coax) 1/4 wavelengths, from the Tee to the antennas.
But thew lead in coax can be 50 ohm coax. I suggest the flexable LMR400.

The ARRL Antenna Book has all this neat o stuff in it.

Here are a few neat yagi sites.

I used to have a link on stacking moonrakers, but I lost it in a hard drive crash.
It seems that you also have to have them a certain distance apart to be effective. Also a 10 degree upward tilt will result in better DX if I remember correctly.

Hello Dr. Death:

I have that info if anyone needs it. It is the factory info from Avanti or Antennas Specialists.

I remember that I would space the Moonraker 4 beam antennas more than what the factory spec's say. But it's quit a project to have that muck spacing.

Using a Moonraker 4 or 6, you will need a good tower and rotator. A TV Push-up mast, and a light weight TV type rotator will not do.

Very good layout PC board, that takes allot of work. Hope he sells them all day to CBers, I don't care where they go.
Some of the so called BIG amps(Dave Mades, ect) look crappy inside because the designers are not very bright.Some look like they were built in a cow barn.

When an amp maker takes to bashing another amp, they feel they have to sell their product for whatever reason. A quality made amp sells itself.

He likes talking smack about folk's and their wives while hiding in the land of anonymity. It's safe there . How healthy would he be if you folks knew where he lived? I don't think the coward would last a week in the real world. What happened to his daughter?

he has survived the expoosure becuase most folks don't care enough his daughter was born with some massive defect that killed her preschool.

He claims it was the result of cropdusting maybe it was but oh nobody beter reven repeat what he out out on the web about her or he will make them pay

and yet he claims it it fair game to claim that my wife is in fact male

he is a coward and bully I am merely dishing back to him his own style of posting

he can't stop it anytime being merely agreeing to be a vaguely civl but he claims outrage over the treament his daugter has recieved in merely telling the truth about her, but will not even agree to refirain form talking trash about people not even posting in the NG

Watch all the obese BEER BELLY'ed hams waddle on by in the parking lot flea market at the Hara Arena.

CLICKINZIE HERE: http://wa5kub.com

The camera was in operation today (Friday) and it's 2000% proof positive what the FDA has said all along about the rampant obesity epidemic in America.
(makes you wonder how many Big-Macs they sell this weekend especially in and around Dayton)

There is also an OPEN CHAT ROOM on the site where you can comment on the goings on. Almost as much fun as being there live.

Trust me folks, you'll see more middle-aged pathetic looking white men than anywhere else, possibly except being the local model train show or the next NASCAR event.

My name is Danny & this is my story.Back in the sixties, I was a young divorcee working and going to college, sowing my wild oats in a big way. I'd been branded with a big scarlet A for being the first woman in my home town to get a divorce, and being of high intelligence, I figured if you're already fallen, you might as well enjoy the bottom and forget about the morality at the top.

One of my lovers was a man who traveled through my town twice a month. He always called me, and we'd have dinner, then go back to his hotel room for some hot and heavy sex. John was good in bed, and we had the kind of relationship where I didn't ask about his other lovers, and he didn't ask about mine. We just accepted what we had and enjoyed it for what it was.

He was short, about 5'5, but with a trim build. He had laughing brown eyes, dark curly hair, nice features with a very sexy mouth (which he knew how to use, in every way) and a nice thick cock, not too long.

One night during dinner, I happened to mention that I'd been dating a gay man for over a year. danny was in the closet, and I was his cover for family and those acquaintances who didn't know he was gay. tom said he'd never tried sex with a man, but had always wondered what it would be like. I laughingly offered to call tom for him. He quickly said no, and we dropped the subject.

After our usual torrid sex, we were lying on the bed idly chatting, and he brought up the subject again. Without giving him a chance to back out, I picked up the phone and called danny. I told him where I was, and asked him to come over immediately.

When I hung up, John looked up at me with a mixture of fear, anticipation, and several other emotions. I just laughed and told him to relax, that Norman would be very gentle with hi dan was there in less than ten minutes, and when he realized why I'd called him, a wide smile covered his face and he hugged me. Then he stripped and joined us in the bed.

tom was tall, with a heavy build. He had ash blond hair and blue eyes, and "boy next door" looks. I'd never seen his cock before, but was pleasantly surprised at its length and thickness.

"Pity you aren't bi," I teased, and he winked at me, laughing.

He looked at John for a long time, as John lay there blushing, eyes closed. Then I dropped my head and began sucking one of tom nipples. He gasped and shivered, but before he could do anything else,dan had dropped down to cover the other.

tom was moaning, "No, no, no." But at the same time, his hands were on the backs of our heads, holding us close to him. I shook with silent laughter, my own passions assuaged and so able to tease him without driving myself crazy.

After a long time, Norman started sliding down his body. tom moaned and his hand tightened on my head. He shuddered convulsively when danny took all of him in his mouth.

"Nobody ever did that to me," he panted.

His body arched off the bed as he came, screaming loud enough that the neighbors pounded on the walls.

He collapsed back onto the bed, chest heaving, face and torso bright red. tom and I snuggled him close, kissing and caressing him until he recovered.

He finally looked up at tom then, and whispered, "Thank you."

tom laughed and kissed him. tom was so shocked he didn't respond at first, but then I saw his jaws move and his eyes close, and he responded with all the passion in him.

I went to the shower, leaving them to play alone. tom left when I did, tom asleep on the bed, smiling idiotically.

Tommy called me the next morning to thank me, and said he'd call me the next time he was in town.

When I didn't hear from him in several weeks, I finally mentioned it to Tom saying I was afraid John had been upset by the experience. tom went scarlet and dropped his eyes, turning hastily away from me.

The truth hit me, and I started laughing.

"I've lost men to other women before, but this is the first time I ever lost one to a man," I told him. "Remind me ...

I've been taking Paxil for 2 years, started with 10mg and a week ago I upped it to 20mg as my anxiety and panic attacks have gotten worse over the past month. Went to the doctor yesterday and explained things and he added Lorazepam 1mg 3x a day to it. My GAD and panics are starting to effect my job, I get angry and start swearing when I get pissed off.
I sweat like a pig and shake. It's REALLY HORRIBLE.

Gee mopeydopey - for someone who likes to stalk people at their homes, you sure do go out of your way to hide your home address. Remind me again what kind of toxic poisons you used to "crop dust" your daughter.

Is there anything a person could say anonymously on usenet that is so horrible that you would drive 400 miles to stalk him at his house, knock on his door, and take pictures of him? Steveo (Steve is probably not even his real name) is a nutcase. He should be institutionalized. Nobody actually likes him; it's just that in some cases they hate his enemies more. The old saying "my enemy's enemy is therefore my friend" applies to Steveo. Could you see yourself hanging out with an idiot like him? All he would want you to do is drive places to stalk usenet people with him . What a loser!

Man did you ever call that one right on the head !!

I also watched the HamventionCam today and I ain't seen so many big beer gutz floppin over the belt at the waistline since the day I went to the St Paddy's Day party at the local Am Legion Hall.

You gotta think how those guys manage to walk upright without falling over face-first from the offset center-of-gravity Beer Belly.

Oh well, here's to the future of Ham Radio:

True, but I must have counted close to 40 (fourty)
morbidly obese hams seated in those motorized Scooters that I saw zipping by the HamventionCam today.
Many of them stopped for the camera, got up mugged
4 the camera, then hopped back on and zipped away.
(funniest was the guy pulling a red wagon behind his Scooter that had a couple of big astron power supplies in it.
Guess he needed one to re-charge the battery ? (grin)

The way I heard it, Mopeydopey sold his daughter into sexual slavery; and when she learned to speak he killed her to save himself from jail. That's messed up if it's true.

Let this be a reason to us all not to crosspost to other newsgroups.
Each newsgroup has its particular culture, and crossposting only serves to inflame people. So, even if you think that a particular topic has wandered enough to make it worthy of crossposting to a newgroup that more closely matches that topic, it's probably best to SEPARATELY post it over there, and not crosspost.

PS: I have posted this reply separately to each newsgroup. If I can do it, you can do it.

whatever you do, do not let mopeydopey have access to your address. sooner or later the loser will stalk you or ask someone to do it for him. the guy can't control himself. it's like the urges he used to get with his daugter, before he had her "crop dusted".

And he's a CB-er to boot, it would appear. I bet he has "latent" issues, as college kids used to say. I wonder if he listens to Doctors Bill, Phil or Laura.

If I had the power id try it but I realy don't think it is drugs or achol. it is pure mental illness one the subtype of Zenophobia

I long ago gave up trying to prune back the excesses fo the cross posting of theses idoits and I hardly bother with much proof reading. they are not reading it anyway.

veiwed absractly I do find them oddly intriguing, and queerly fasinating that they are willing to spend such effort on soething that has little or no pruposI have the time becuase I am often doing a shift answering custermer supoort messages so I work ccleaing up the trash in between the messages , alot of down time most shits, and there fore at half my my I am on the clock for for you are too chickenshit to use your fists and have to have a weapon.

I have stated I would help socertain folks do that if they inisted

but this is not the same as saying I have done so you need to learn to read a condictional sentence, the 'if then" contruction seems to be beyond you besides taking the statements out of context, which is another matter

I certainly willing to harm someone if that prove needfull and defensive but I have never harmed anybody in the NG not even you you need to learn to read

no it is called assisted suicide and I only offer to do so in the event they chose to take actions that leave me no prudent choice that we call self defense

I discourage them but some one may insit one day on comitting suicide

you never saw is not the same as I never posted indeed you claimed you had me killfiled if I was you would not know if I had posted something or not in claiming you know the contents of my post when I am in your killfile you have to be lying about something

JSF... you're right about those "big amps". They are nothing but hay-wired prototypes, mostly designed and constructed by persons having no electronic background. I have looked at many of them over the years and have found that they have major flaws such as inadequate cooling, improper tuning, and instabilities/oscillations caused by improper layout and long wires running around all over inside. Because of these issues, their owners must keep a steady stream of expensive output transistors flowing through them... if you know what I mean... LOL

Hi, I am reading on your website http://www.telstar-electronics.com/Solid%20State%20RF%20Power%20Amplifiers.htm about efficiency and conductingangle.
My question, has anyone ever attemped a class D (pulse width) modulated amp with MOSFETS for 27Mc?

The limit would be the switching time, say if we have 1nS switching FETS, and 37 nS period time, we use a bridge, so per 37 nS we switch 4x = 4nS

We dissipate any power (not counting Rds-on losses), could we achieve 80% efficiency?
There are also losses from transformer and Pi filter of course.
And perhaps you would need a switchmode to get a higher operating voltage, mmm that would bring it down to .8 x .8 = 64 % + filter and other losses....
But it COULD take you into the kW range with cheap FETS?

Whatdoyouthink? ;-)

Kind of like building an amp and running it with class C bias?

You know what that means?

Jan,

Sure you can run class D at 27MHz... the problem is distortion. Class D is very efficient but is really only meant for digital signals.

Hi, you know class D audio amps exist I suppose?
There are even class D power amp chips for audio.
These use PWM (pulse width modulation).
You can make any output waveform with PWM (as long as the switching frequency is much higher then the output frequency).

This links shows some basics for a modulator (driving class D for example):
http://www.netway.com/~stevec/ham/pdm_article_solid_state.html

I can also think of a 'digital' solution, say you have 8 RF amps, 1W, 2W, 4W, 8W, 16W, 32W, 64W, and 128W, now simply switching these on with an 8 bit digital audio signal (one on each bit) and summing the RF output together, will give you a 255W AM modulated transmitter with less then 1/255 (0.4 percent) distortion (have not tried)?
Since these RF amps can be class C (no need for A, AB, B, any linear!!) you should get good efficiency.
The stages are only 'on' or 'off'.

So, maybe someone could combine some :-) Nice for experiments....
hehe

Use 75 ohm cable if your antennas are 50 ohm. Getting your antennas to be 50 ohms is nearly impossible. usually the actual impeadance of the antenna is around 30 ohms so you can use 50 ohm cable instead of the 75. When you use 1/4 wavelength of 75 ohm cable on a 50 ohm antenna the the radio end of the cable will look like 100 ohms. put the 2 100 ohms loads in paralell and now they are 50 again. Use 75 ohm cable this with 30 ohm oantenna and you get 30 ohms at the radio one they are cophased. Use 50 cable and instead of doubling the impedance of the antenna its now qradrupled so a single antenna is seen as 120 ohms and the cophased set is seen as 60, a beeter match for the 50 ohm radio.

Actually I think I have this wrong, should be Volts (RF output) ratio or powers of 2.
So 1 W in 50 Ohm: U^2 / 50 = 1, so U = sqrt(50) = 7V eff, the next higher higher one would be 14V eff or 3.92 W, better start at the high side...

So for your 300W in the highest bit: U^2 / 50 = 300, U^2 = 15000, so U = sqrt(15000)= 122V eff.
The next lower one (bit 7) would be 122 / 2 = 61V eff, so 61^2 / 50 = 74.42W, bit 6 would be 61 / 2 = 30.05 V, makes 18.06W bit 5 would be about 15 *15 / 50 = 4.5W bit 4 would be 7.5 x 7.5 / 50 = 1.125 W etc etc.
I have also been thinking about doing SSB this way.
For SSB we need half the bits, and one bit to change the phase of the driving carrier 180 degrees.
Hope I got that right.

You'd be selling lots of amps!!!

Your statement about having the switching freq much greater then the output freq I agree with. But if you wanted to make an amp for 27MHz... what switching freq would you have? 2X, 5X, 10X ? Also, with a high switching rate... with square-waves... you have tremendous harmonic content. You also would require much higher frequency amplifers... along with the quantum leap in complexity of combining all those amplifiers, A/D conversion, etc... I think your idea would work... it's just not practical in my mind.

Look at that example link, it uses 100kHZ (KILO Hertz) in the PWM AM modulator, leaved the RF stage as is, but the PWM modulates it supply voltage.
that way the output.

In case of direct pwm to the RF, yes, I mentioned 1nS switching time, could be done.
I like the digital idea better.....

no no, MOSFETS can switch that fast....

Any PC gives 16 bit audio, just some shift registers or some i2c io expanders, no need for an AD converter, we are going to drive digital now :-)!!!

>etc... I think your idea would work... it's >just not practical in my mind.

Remember the modulation frequency is in the audio range, at that speed you have to change the PWM.
You need a pi filter lowpass in ANY case to get good harmonic surpression.

In the digital case (swithing 8 amplifiers), there are some more advantages.

Problem is adjusting the exact power level (so a ramp (sawtooth) waveform has equal steps), adding (summing) the output takes inductors couplers... impedance matching.
Hey, I have done that DA thing for up to 10 MHz or so....
the big boys can do it, why not we?

Probably will be worth a fortune on ebay 50 years from now.

I think some of those Amps are getting close to class D now, they drive 250 Watt amps with 5 watts in to a 50 watt driver 10- 13 DB gain then a pair of finals with 10-13 DB of gain, no bias on the base , I can just see the crap the poor transistors go through. Then they mod their radios to give SWING which does nothing but make the wattmeter swing like SSB but their no louder, but I will say it helps keep the poor finals cooler.

In the new Commerical Broadcast AM transmitters their Audio is Class D audio amps driving the finals saving allot of AC power.

Wrong again, you nym shifted and bypassed filters while you bad mouthed me.
You and Frank both did it and I saw it quoted by others in this NG.
Therefore it is NOT with my consent. Stick with one or two nyms and I'll killfile you again and this can be the end of this nonsense.

that just isn't true Dr

what you have to do is present a posture that a person would reasonably make the subject belive he lieable to be attacked and since you have made the bulsting claim you follow before rasing your hand is clearly an asuative move

We can discuss it if you wish, but I would advise against it as I am very knowledgeable about the subject. I worked security in a mental health facility, my mother was a nurse at a mental facility, my wife is getting her masters degree in psychology and has worked in mental heath for 22 years.

Hey, I was invited there and he said he was gonna put me face down in a hurtin' extreme. So I went there and he was too scared to come outside and talk about it.

What else is there to be said about it?

I doubt it's even dogie posting that crap, really.

It's simply someone with too much keyboard time on their hands that's fishing for suckers. By the looks of this group today, I'd say the bait is working. I trashed 90+ posts unread so far.

I know I had em' watching out the windows a couple years ago. Now...I don't give a flying fucking rat about them.

Just ignore it.

you sure do love to brag about driving 300 miles to stalk someone you only know from usenet. that is felonious behavior; coward.

> What else is there to be said about it?

you could explain why you are such a coward. better yet, give your address to the people you stalk and make it a fair fight.

Exactly, and no excessive distortion in the audio either.
I see no reason why it cannot be done for CB AM (at high power too).

Why do you not use the one from
http://www.netway.com/~stevec/ham/pdm_article_solid_state.html

and pay the guy something for his design?
You can then use a FET (at the higher voltage) for the RF power stage.

I, myself have a Ranger RCI-2970, so am in no hurry to build something atm.
But I would help you with the design for fun.
Dunno everything, but I did my thing to 500W in the past.

The reason of all this, is, that when I look at you power amp,
(and the Ranger also has this rather large 'cooling block' at the bottom), those huge fins say: Waisting Power.
Any watt dissipated is a watt not transmitted.

I think I can do this thingy for AM, CW or course, and likely DSB..
For SSB things would be more complex, you need 2 DSB versions, and the audio / RF 90 degrees phase shifts.

But it would be SSB class D + C :-)

"Anon", there's nothing "anonymous" about me. I stand behind my comments with my real name. And if there's any doubt as to where I live, just research some of Morkie's posts...He likes to append many of them with the addresses and erroneous phone numbers of his "foes". Markie proves the point! Of course, his lame "get help" spam isn't really any kind of defense, because if Markie had to type more than those two words, everybody could see how English-imparied he is.

Jan, I read the entire article by WA1Q1X. It's very interesting but doesn't change my mind. One of the major problems that I see... and why it could never replace external amplifier blocks such as our SkyWave amplifier is that this digital system is high level modulated. This does not lend itself to being added into an existing tranciever system... like CB or Ham. This design is something that would have to be incorporated inside the transmitter where a seperate audio signal is available.

Agreed.
Your amp sure has a lot of merit on its own.

My remark was actually triggered somehow by yours about 'flying wires',
This picture of the RF stage: http://www.classeradio.com/2module.htm and somebody elses suggestion to have more tech.... postings.

No, but don't you think they would be on the market if it were feasible? Try hooking one up with a high pass filter and see what it sounds like.

Maybe you dunno it, but most modern cellphones use PWM audio amps to extend battery life and increase audio power.

As I mentioned, it is just math.
Say you wanted (more then a cellphone) and go to 20kHz as highest freq.
You'd have to switch a bit higher, Niquist applies, but let's use 320kHz.
So your lowpass would have to start falling of after 20kHz and be say -70 dB at 200 kHz.

20 40 80 160 230 = 4 octaves, so 70 dB over 4 octaves.
What is your problem?

The real problem is keeping the RF from radiation via the speaker leads in the long wave band....
Sony had (or maybe has) some HiFi PWM audio amp.

You can NEVER make a rule (like you say), PWM has distortion at high audio frequencies without bein gspecific about the design (electronics).

Are you what? Or are you a loser without a life? Isn't that right Scheissman? But you're living proof that no matter how much a person or society does, that you'll still be white trash at the end of the day.

Hello Sad:
All of your points are valid. This has been going on for a long time, not only here on usenet on the air as well.

The gay freak not only attacks hams but also insults our fellow radio hobbiest over in the CB & shortwave groups as well. No one could possibly have known that Mark was a homosexual if he didn't brag about it. Now the sick freak has even involved his elderly father in the mess.

Don't worry about it,Sad. This too will pass. With his queer lifestyle it won't be very long 'till the HIV sets in.

See Mark, right there.

Why do you have to act so snotty to that guy? That's why you're so disliked.Maybe if you asked some real questions you may know if the OP "could be trusted". What a nasty,mean sprited post on your part.

FYI.....check the price on 79-290, Opened up for the freeband and 10 meters.

Stop projecting your problems on others. You may actually learn to be happy.

What does "cowarage" mean? A question, not a flame. Is that an enraged cow?

I thought that giving out one's information was an option here on usenet much like CB. Who am I? I am a CB'er, Ham, & SWL. I live in MN. Thats all I care to give out. Frankly, I can't see why you need more than that. Why would I expose myself and family to the nuts on usenet? The only reason you would require that information is if your intentions were less than honorable.

I've noticed you have carried your fight with a few hams into the CB & SWL groups. I don't know you or any of your "friends". I have seen where you have said a lot of rotten things about people's family, along with threats to carry this over to their homes. Why would I want to expose my wife and children to that type of abuse? Would exposing my family to that make me a man in your mind? Maybe to you, but I don't think so.

I have to leave for my shift at work. Even if I was off today, I have wasted enough time with you and will not contiue this with you. It is you that has made it known to the world you sleep with men. Now you're mad because the vast majority don't like the fact you use that as an excuse to flame and name shift. Grow up.

Hello Echo Charlie:

Yeah I'll bet the guys with beam antennas have a few dB edge on the guys with just a omni antenna.

I have heard guys with high power, back scatter off the atmosphere, has a slight sound of echo. I heard a guy in Riverside Ca, while I was in Las Vegas, really loud with the back scatter echo. I didn't have the horse power to make back to him in the mobile.

Was testing the Interceptor 10K, a 5/8 wavelength ground plane antenna, on 36 LSB. While chatting with locals a guy from Australia broke in and said we where all booming in. Kind of a neat radio check with a stock radio, turned down for antenna comparison tests.

Who's got a neat Sun Spot Chart?

With Fatass Davies whining to get his asskicking hidden away on a daily basis, it's no wonder that even his parents consider him a retard.
Let's see a 32 year old man that goes around calling himself a "time lord" and has yet to have the first piece of pussy. It can't get any more pathetic then Lloyd Austin Davies.

Real people with a good news reader always use a killfile on Usenet. There isn't a newsgroup around that is readable unfiltered anymore: ISPs and NSPs just don't care about their own terms of service when it comes to NNTP feeds anymore.

Wow, got me beat. All I have is an Icom 746 that has been opened up.
Basically transmits from 1-170 Mhz. I do have an Icom 2340H that does the same. I have several other radios, 2M, 440 that don't merit mentioning.

I work in construction and I have built my own amp every bit as good if not better that that overpriced skywave he is trying to hock. Mine has a ssb delay which his does not. I have a power on light which his does not. I'm thinking of adding a receive amp and maybe a high/low switch which his does not have. Later on I plan to have a remote on and ssb delay that will be controlled by switches on my 148 gtl. The "professor" seems to think that construction workers cannot build an amp.

And he doesn't know what I said either. Sorry to respond to Markie-tards post through yours, but I have him killfiled, so here we go.

Markie-tard, I USED to work in mental health for over 9 years, then I worked corrections for almost 11 years, then I became an electrician, which is what I am still doing to this day. It may be hard to believe, but some people have had more than one job in their life time. Quit letting your ass overload your mouth. Get your facts straight before you post and maybe you won't make an ass of yourself.

Wiseman's hose? Muahahhahahahaha. What a loser! Are you again trying to poke things? Are you poking the Lavender Lads gay group with your hose?
Or your mommy? By the way, I don't think a guy who lives in a 33,000

Dr. Death,

I'm not asking anyone to bow to anything... and I see that you don't seem to be responding to my request for photos of you amplifier design. I don't think anyone if being fooled here by your condescending remarks. If you don't produce some evidence of your expertise soon... you will undoubtedly be labeled as a fraud and a fake.

Looks like the professor has lowered himself to selling the brochure for his amp on eBay, which you can read for free on his web site. He also lowered his price. Could it be he's hurting for money? I'm guessing eBay pulled his amp listing because he wasn't smart enough to include "not for use on 11 meters". If the FCC gets wind of his web site, he might get a nasty and expensive fine. I'm surprised the AKC nuts haven't ratted him out yet, as his spec sheet states that it operates from 26-30MHz ,with far less than 50 watts of input, which is against FCC regs.

I can 'guess' at what you are trying to say with the word, "amazig", but that is not what I was referring to. I was referring to your previous post that was completely and utterly unintelligible; you know, that part that you removed from your reply. Was it due to possible embarrassment? I'll quote it again, below, so everybody can "understand" what the majority of us can't [understand].

I've seen that green Charger of yours so I thought you may be interested in checking out a Charger car show here just north of Detroit in a week or two at the Chrysler Museum. The guy at the front desk told me today that they have already 300 registered to show their cars. The event is free and open to the public. The flyer you can read at the URL below.

A 2 element Quad will provide a surprising amount of gain for the size compared to a yagi and you don't need to use tubular aluminum either in the element construction.

Take a look at the URL's below for some designs.

Good luck.

This is an actual letter sent to a man named Ryan DeVries by the Department of Environmental Quality, State of Michigan. This guy's response is hilarious, but read the State's letter before you get to the response letter.

SUBJECT: DEQ File No.97-59-0023;T11N; R10W, Sec. 20; Montcalm County

Dear Mr. DeVries:

It has come to the attention of the Department of Environmental Quality that there has been recent unauthorized activity on the above referenced parcel of property. You have been certified as the legal landowner and/or contractor who did the following unauthorized activity:

Construction and maintenance of two wood debris dams across the outlet stream of Spring Pond. A permit must be issued prior to the start of this type of activity. A review of the Department's files shows that no such permits have been issued.

Therefore, the Department has determined that this activity is in violation of Part 301, Inland Lakes and Streams, of the Natural Resource and Environmental Protection Act, Act 451 of the Public Acts of 1994, being sections 324.30101 to 324.30113 of the Michigan Compiled Laws, annotated.

The Department has been informed that one or both of the dams partially failed during a recent rain event, causing debris and flooding at downstream locations. We find that dams of this nature are inherently hazardous and cannot be permitted.

The Department therefore orders you to cease and desist all activities at this location, and to restore the stream to a free-flow condition by removing all wood and brush, forming the dams, from the stream channel. All restoration work shall be completed no later than January 31, of next year.

Please notify this office, when the restoration has been completed so that a follow-up site inspection may be scheduled by our staff.
Failure to comply with this request or any further unauthorized activity on the site may result in this case being referred for elevated enforcement action.

We anticipate and would appreciate your full cooperation in this matter. Please feel free to contact me at this office if you have any questions.

Sincerely,

David L. Price District Representative Land and Water Management Division
State of Michigan

Re: DEQ File No. 97-59-0023; T11N; R10W, Sec. 20; Montcalm County.

Dear Mr. Price,

Your certified letter dated 12/17/02 has been handed to me to respond to. I am the legal landowner, but not the Contractor at 2088 Dagget, Pierson, Michigan. A couple of beavers are in the (State unauthorized) process of constructing and maintaining two wood "debris" dams across the outlet stream of my Spring Pond.

While I did not pay for, authorize, nor supervise their dam project, I think they would be highly offended that you call their skillful use of natures building materials, debris.

I would like to challenge your department to attempt to emulate their dam project any time and/or any place you choose. I believe I can safely state there is no way you could ever match their dam skills, their dam resourcefulness, their dam ingenuity, their dam persistence, their dam determination and/or their dam work ethic.

As to your request, I do not think the beavers are aware that they must first fill out a dam permit prior to the start of this type of dam activity.

My first dam question to you is: (1) Are you trying to discriminate against my Spring Pond Beavers or (2) do you require all beavers throughout this State to conform to said dam request?

If you are not discriminating against these particular beavers, through the Freedom of Information Act, I hereby respectfully request completed copies of all those other applicable beaver dam permits that have been issued. Perhaps we will see if there really is a dam violation of Part 301, Inland Lakes and Streams, of the Natural Resource and Environmental Protection Act, Act 451 of the Public Acts of 1994, being sections 324.30101 to 324.30113 of the Michigan Compiled Laws, annotated.

I have several other concerns. My first concern is... aren't the beavers entitled to legal representation? The Spring Pond Beavers are financially destitute and are unable to pay for said representation, so the State will have to provide them with a dam lawyer.

The Department's dam concern that either one or both of the dams failed during a recent rain event causing flooding is proof that this is a natural occurrence, which the Department is required to protect.

In other words, we should leave the Spring Pond Beavers alone rather than harassing them and calling their dam, names. If you want the stream "restored" to a dam free-flow condition, please contact the beavers, but if you are going to arrest them, they obviously did not pay any attention to your dam letter... they being unable to read English.

In my humble opinion, the Spring Pond Beavers have a right to build the unauthorized dams, as long as the sky is blue, the grass is green and water flows downstream. They have more dam rights than I do to live and enjoy Spring Pond.

If the Department of Natural Resources and Environmental Protection lives up to its name, it should protect the natural resources (Beavers) as well as the environment (Beavers' Dams).

So, as far as the beavers and I are concerned, this dam case can be referred for more elevated enforcement action right now. Why wait until 1/31/2003?

The Spring Pond Beavers may be under the dam ice then and there will be no way for you or your dam staff to contact/harass them then.

In conclusion, I would like to bring your attention to a real environmental quality (health) problem in the area. It is the bears!
Bears are actually defecating in our woods. I definitely believe you should be persecuting the defecating bears and leave the beavers alone.

If you are going to investigate the beaver dam, watch your step!
(The bears are not careful where they dump!) Being unable to comply with your dam request, and being unable to contact you, on your dam answering machine, I am sending this response to your dam office.

Thank You,

Ryan DeVries & The Dam Beavers

It's a cute urban legend. I read it last year and it was set in Ontario, and it was the ministry of wildlife sending the letter in that version.

Just watched GNR in Lisbon that was taped yesterday. Sad, really sad. Axl is overweight, can't hit the high notes anymore, and was out of breath through most of the songs. That, coupled with the fact that they only have mediocre guitarists (read no Slash), makes me think this comeback will be short lived.

Anyone else see this sad event?

Hi........

I know exactly what you mean. My wife and I have decided an open marriage was the way to go. She can now actually cum when she watches me being serviced by guys, and BTW I like it ,too.

I used to have her give me head, but something was missing. I found for myself that only another guy can properly service another guy. I like the taste of sperm,too.

My wife has found that her best method to cum is a well hung black man streatching her asshole.......I like to lick his balls as he's pounding her ass!

Hope this helps, as it did for us.

The Good Dr certainly gets upset over Mark,even when Mark's posts are about radio.Maybe the fact that Mark openly states he is Bi stirs the good Dr's inner most feelings.
I wonder if Dr Death has lost count of the amount of blow jobs he's giving to his co-workers in the portable toilets at those construction sites?

14.275 is the new 14.313 Perhaps worse?

14.275 serves a USEFULL PURPOSE.
It draws all the toilet tics like cow flops draws horseflies. By so doing it keeps the rest of the bands clear for the rest of us.

Ham radio NEEDS it's own LOONEY BIN where all the goofballs can gravitate to. That freq is 14.275

The new engine only has about 1500 miles on it, it's running 12's which is plenty quick for a street ride. It's a fun toy, but not very practical.

I can't let go of the sixties, Dr. The Charger was a 68 just like the General Lee, except it was sublime green. They're all money pits.

It was a great time for Mopar. Some of the best body styles and huge ponies under the hood.
I'm not sure if I've told this story on here before, but I'll tell it anyways. I had a 66 Newport 2 door hardtop, red with black interior. The 383 was shot and we pulled a 440 out of a 67 GTX and put it in the Newport.
Within the first week I racked up 5 tickets for speeding and illegal start from stop (burn outs), two of the burn out tickets were within an hour of each other.

It looks sharp, I've put a few bucks in it, but it's slow. I get all kinds of kids wanting to race me, but I always decline. Giving it to my daughter come the end of July.

LOL! My daughter has a pretty good head on her shoulders. Besides, she has seen a lot of family and friends killed in auto accidents, and she is the one that always reminds the wife and I to buckle up. I used to think driving in St. Louis was dangerous, but it isn't nothing compared to the rednecks driving in my neck of the woods.

They are a bit pricey but if I sold a few yard ornaments I might be able to swing it. I'd have to roll-cage the Plymouth which takes some doing with a rag-top, in order to not make it look too hillbilly and have the top open and close over it. I've seen some nice ones but they really restrict the leg room, especially in the back seat.

you'd get that training wheel no code tech. You sure can't pass any higher tests or the code.

What does VE exams have to do with where people post, dumbass? You should really quit mixing the booze with the drugs, Marqueer. On second thought, drink your self a keg and shoot up some more heroin maybe you'll do a John Belushi.

I can't believe this shitstain of humanity is still trying to bust my balls knowing that I have him killfiled. He is so deluded in his thinking that whatever I post, he assumes that it is about him, and humps my leg at every opportunity. He thrives on negative attention, and gets plenty of it between RRAP and RRCB and no doubt other groups as well. I think if he can sit and post all day, then he should be able to work at some sort of job, instead of depleting the already overburdened entitlement programs. Markie-tard needs to take his own advice and "gte hlep".

Well well, Markie-tard accuses me of stealing someone's email addy that I typed in by mistake (I forgot to put 555usb in my addy), and the hypocrite intentionally forges posts. What irony. I also see that he has RRAP in as much disarray as he has RRCB, which is a damn shame as both groups could do without his nonsense.

Lame try. First thing that gave you away was the use of punctuation. The second was your header which you are to stupid to change. Though it's good to see that you are true to your nature, posting homo related nonsense to a CB newsgroup, though you need not forge, as Markie-tard as he has his own issues to deal with, as do you.

I think it's his lame attempt to say you have a less important job than he, because he sits on his ass and designs amps (poor ones), and you work with your hands. Of course that is utter bullshit, I'll match my (union) paycheck against his any day as I'm sure you would also, considering he had to drop his price by $100 or so, and now sells his free amp info on eBay.

Dr Death has gone out of his way as of late to defend markie-tard.

We all knew the doctor was probably a homosexual and his actions proved it. Dr Death protested too much! All of his posts making threats to markie-tard were only to cover his own homosexual feelings. Could this be why his own daughter has become the teen age head queen? Like father like daughter?

Did dr death actually teach his daughter the proper method to working a cock? AND HE CALLS MARKIE A MOLESTER!!!

Do tell doc, do tell!!!!

I suppose I should have use "PING Twist" in the subject. At least the troll would have realized I was callin' out to some one and not just trying to start a free for all thread.

I can't seem to find Twisted's email address. I had the one he don't put out in the groups. I'm sure he checks in here periodically like I do (I just haven't seen anything I wanted to chime in on)

Ladies and Gentlemen,

For those of you who have been bombed by posts from "kb9...@yahoo.com" from an Amateur Radio forum, allow me to introduce you to the author, Mark C. Morgan.

Mark is a very disturbed, admittedly deviant and dishonest person who has been harrassing an Amateur Radio forum since at least 1997.

As part of his on-going fusillade in that forum, he has at various times insisted that he's a "colonel" in the US Army "chemical corps", further insisting that he's been "drafted", and further insisting that he was not allowed to "resign". Never mind that he was only 8 years old when the draft was stopped in the 70's! He's since recanted that claim to only be a Lieutenant, then only a sergeant that was discharged due to his "nerves".

Mr Morgan has perpetuated a smear campaign against other members of that forum, going as far as post-editing comments, forging posts, and even trying to make "complaints" to the Civil Air Patrol Inspector General Corps about perceived sleights that have nothing to do with CAP.

This is nothing more than an attempt by Morgan to "silence" those who would expose his foolishness and not tolerate his dishonesty in a public forum.

Mr Morgan has admitted to various acts of perversion and deceit, going as far as bragging about his use of lying and his belief that deceit should be proactively taught to children as part of thier upbringing.

Mr Morgan has even gone as far as to create multiple screen names with which to spam that forum, including one screen name that invokes the name of my deceased daughter in order to perpetuate his "point".

Be aware. Be informed. Mark C. Morgan is NOT a person of reputable character or honest nature.

He still doesn't get it. I don't care about his sexual persuasion as long as he keeps it to himself. The reason he is not welcome here is that he keeps cramming it down our throats.

Mark, I could care less about you or your fans, but I had your screen nics kill filed, along with your fans. They still respond to you, so this constant changing of screen nics is just so you can be sure everyone else can see your problems, well most don't care. This is straight from your TOS, so please read carefully

(g) to bombard individuals or newsgroups with uninvited communications, data or information, or other similar activities, including but not limited to "spamming", "flaming" or denial or distributed denial of service attacks.

(l) to post or transmit information or communications that are defamatory, fraudulent, obscene or deceptive, including but not limited to scams such as
"make-money-fast" schemes or "pyramid/chain" letters;

p) to generate excessive amounts (as determined in our sole discretion) of Internet traffic, or to disrupt net user groups or email use by others;

Now I'm sure there are more than enough people that are willing to take your posts, copy them including headers and send them to techsupport@Hughes.Net & Abuse@Hughes.Net and make complaints, but all you really have to do is stop responding & changing nics to bypass newsgroups filters.

I will save you posts, as I have done with the others, then kill file your latest screen nics, but please heed this little bit of advise and stop changing your screen nics

you mean I must submit to being the dsubject of Defamation by Robeson and Wismen and Dr death and fred and TOM

I must also jede by the number time what you suggest has BEEN done that Hughes does not agree with your assement of the situation

indeed my contacts with have them in agrreement that as long and Robeson and Wisme and the rest contiue as they are doing and thier ISP ignore Hughesnet complaints to them I have little choice complain away indeed if you did get my access termitaed it might work out to favor since it would give real wolrd damges to Sue, Robeson and Wismen for, the one thign I lack is the clear real world damge

if you can stop my foes from their ever incresing tide of filth then I will not need new nick to use

I don't shift nicks I use them all and all the bandwidth they provide

You're welcome,Mark. Don't let the bigots and wanna be's get to you. Hey man, you ever work tropo on 2 meter ssb? I have 11 elements on the flat side and a 250 box I run with my kenwood. The ssb on 2 is kinda cool. A bunch of us got our tickets at the same time and we meet here on channel 39lsb and then QSY over to 2 meters. Sometimes we chat on 39lsb and laugh at the old farts griping about cw and the no code techs. They're pretty funny. They'll be even funnier after the code is dropped. I have my general as soon as the code is dropped. Anyway dude don't let the gay bashers and bigots get you down.I'll talk radio with you anytime you want.

To start off with - Since when doesn't Amateur equipment not have to certified, I'm sure Kenwood would have loved to hear about this since the FCC blocked the sales of the Kenwood Sky Command linking system several years ago! Also the people at Vertex-
Standard(Yeasu), Ten-Tec, Icom and several more amateur equipment manufactures must be jumping for joy :) I hope this post wasn't taken perbatum from some newspaper or something written on the men's room wall. #2 As far as I know the Galaxy Radio
mentioned in the post are FCC Type Accepted. or they wouldn't even be allowed to be imported as is into the US. ONLY if a radio is modified after it's importation to the US makes them illegal for use on the CB band. Even if a technician modifies the radio all he has to do is verbally warn you that the modification makes it illegal for use on the CB band. Then YOU are the law breaker not the manufacture or the technician.
The radio
can be used for any Amateur operator that is licensed as a MARS-CAP operator with the proper modification. NOT A LEGAL BEAGLE - OUTLAW OPERATOR - 30 years, no monatary fortitures, no letters, no NADA! You can't creat Common Sence, born with it - or ate up with it!!!!!

Well, well, well!

An ANYMOUSE hiding behind a FAKE Amateur Radio callsign.

NO licensee in the FCC database named "Sidney L. Nobles".

Yet another coward who joins the fray but hasn't got the nads to stand up to his own rhetoric.

You're worse than Morgan, and that takes some doing.

Steve, K4YZ

Just like you hide behind several different names and a post office box instead of puttting your real address out there, Marqueer. You don't have the stones to do anything but sit on your fat ass and whine.

Well Steve, I should have expected as much.

I only wanted to talk radio with Mark and assure him he is a welcomed and valued member of the amateur radio community.

News alert, Steve: I don't care about the type of sex people have in their private lives. I am comfortable enough with myself that I have no need to attack others. Hey, If they're happy and it does not affect me......then it's NONE of my OR YOUR business.

AS far as "CAP" goes, you are nothing more than little boys with too much time on your hands. A major in CAP! hahahahahaha..........kind of like being a captain of a pleasure boat! It's same thing and equally useless.It's funny as hell, why with the silly uniforms and the like,but useless.Whens the last time we saw a fleet of piper cubs flying in formation into battle? LOL !!!!!!!!!!!!

Steve you are a loser. Then you have the nerve to wonder why Mark does ot post about radio! YOU proved why! YOU AND YOUR BAND OF LOSERS WON'T LET HIM. Mark and I had a great exchange about radio. You still had to attack him for no reason. I wanted to prove a point. I knew Mark would talk about radio if given the chance. I KNEW he is a good guy who likes radio. It's you Steve who has destroyed the ham and cb groups with your hate. I'm outta here you dam loser!

Superiority complex. If you have noticed, hams think CBers are to stupid to pass the test. I have taken the online test and passed without studying, but choose to remain a CBer as we tend to not exhibit this type of behavior. Besides, I like the fact that I can be an outlaw while they rat each other out on a regular basis for minor mistakes.

His web site states "it has automatic ssb delay". So he either has it setup with too much delay for AM or too little for SSB. How can a COR circuit tell them apart?

RRAP is filled to overflowing with all of the old original fruitcakes lids and screwballs from 75 and 20 Meters that R. Hollingsworth ran off of the same. This is where they should be, tossing 1's and 0's at each other in cyberspace instead of on 14.313 and 3.894.5 raising crap 14 hours of the day like they used to do for years.

I saw that guy in the Vouyerweb link at Dayton.
He was the cheap-assed jew on the motorized item for 1/2 the asking price. Everyone told him

Scheissman would know all about doing that with a VE. After all, how else did you think that he would pass that retest. 2 Test. By the way Scheissman, did you ever get that shitty station of yours on the air.
It's funny because I listen to 20 meters and 75 meters all of the time and never hear you on the air. Then again it's doubtful that you can even cut a resonant dipole for 20 meters much less 75 and also the fact you have a postage stamp yard. Because it's not like you have the skill to even install a decent vertical.

You surely know what a troll is? The basic idea is to post a message in two or more newsgroups who clientel are unlikely to agree, and see if any flame wars occur.

Obviously a common sport still, Never mind, ignore it. Brian

Make sure you wipe it clean b-4 it gets into the FET drivers used in flat screens. They pop like popcorn when they short out.

Yeah...you should have see all those fat heebs at Dayton from 1 and 2 land. Driving around on their Scooter Store specials that they bilked Medicare out of to pay for it and chompin down on burgers and Coca-Colas while they drove around like semi-retarded lab monkeys with their 27" diameter flabby thighs and asses. Utterly pathetic!!

Because since 2000 you haven't had a station worthy of doing anything.
Face it, you're a 50 year old loser who lived with his momma for 10 years straight. No job, nothing until to old hag kicked off and gave you a house. The real reason no one ever hears you on HF is because you don't have a signal or a station for that matter. Didnt you sell that 920 for beer money. Ever since you got your wings clipped in retesting you havent been on the air and hiding behind the curtains again. Poor little boy, mommas boy that is. Because no job, no money, no life, no education, that pretty much sums you up. What a loser!!

I know the difference although with these folks I would be hard pressed to put in words the distintion is so fine and they call other coward that would say the same things to THIER faces when they hide so well

Indeed Dr death kept on for days insisting I needed to set a time and place for him to met me and beat me, finaly I indulged hm and set a pssible if rough tie and place for such a meeting.

he falied to show and then whined about my doing EXACTLY what he

Hi-

I came across D201 printed circuit version. The unit looks complete except two missing octal tubes. I have no schematics or service manual - is it avaiable somewhere on net for downloading? Can someone please let me know what octal tubes should I put in sockets? Thanks.

You're right.

I would like to say in public that I am sorry for all of the terrible things I have said to you and hope you can find it in your heart to forgive me.

I did not think about how hurtfull words can be. The posts about my daughter opened my eyes.

Again, to all who has read my hatefull posts, I am sorry.

Hello Jiri:

I have a Tram D201A, a 40 channel radio. Its flat kicks a$$ way more than my Buddy Base or General Radiotelephone radios. Well worth the money to get em humming again.

And they look great!

Sounds like Markie-tard is admitting to forging me. That makes sense since

A lot of the old timers in my area have recently died off, including my father in law the Blue Buzzard (RIP). Whenever I go through town I look for antennas and see less and less.
Hopefully I'll have my antennae another 20 feet up by the end of summer if I can squeeze in the time. The tower is laying in my yard calling my name, but the shovel keeps laughing at me. LOL

There are very few keyclowns on this group. The AKC was the main problem, but that seems to have dwindled to almost nothing. RRCBs main problem is Markie-tard and the hams that followed him here and now troll the rest of the group.

What is "obessed?" Is it big and black like obsidian?
You are really dysfunctional. So dysfunctional that you can't stand it if you don't make the last post. That is exactly how Wiseman is.

You are a Wiseman clone, dysfunctional boy. Everyone despises you and laughs at you.

My point has been made. Now I'm gone from this thread.

What's the matter c0cksucker? Are you pissed off now posting this because your efforts to QRM the Liberty Net last evening on 3.950 were completely unsuccessful?
I heard your belching and later on making comments.
Enjoy yourself. Later this week you may fine yourself missing a lengthy section of your coax & rotor cable bundle missing. I'm telling you in advance asswipe. Enjoy it.

http://www.niggermania.com

As Max Rainbeer once said "Niggermania is the one stop shop of all things jiggaboo."
NIGGERmania is not a nazi, skinhead, KKK or white supremacist site. Unlike other sites you may have visited we welcome humans of any background who wish to visit, laugh and bash niggers and their apologists.
Bringing you NIGGERmania are three Webmassa's. There's Reb Biker presenting his AFN-FAQ with his site, Tom Shelly with Tom Shelly's MHR site and Raptorman's Coontact Tales.
We are often accused of being "racists" full of "hate" towards niggers and nothing could be further from the truth. The webmassas of NIGGERmania don't hate niggers we understand niggers.
Tom Shelly explains our views perfectly in this response to an email he received.
"Personally, I do not hate niggers at all, I just correctly understand that they are not human and treat them accordingly. They are nothing more than wild niggers running around loose and one must act accordingly around them. A hundred and fifty years or so ago, people in this country treated niggers accordingly and kept them contained and controlled. We made them useful by managing their numbers, containing them, and forcing them to work and be somewhat productive. But the natural empathy of the White man caused him to unrestrain a species of animal (niggers) largely due to the fact they they mimick humans in their behavior and dress. Now that the genie is out of the bottle, he can't be put back in and we're stuck with living around 30 million wild niggers.
I am never surprised when I hear stories of TNB; stories of niggers raping, torturing, murdering and beating White people. Stories from Africa of them raping babies, toddlers, and goats; drinking lizard pee and smoking their own shit to get high. The rampant disease and famine there and watching their nigglets die off by the millions while their mammies get gang-banged in the bush to pump out another litter. Nothing about niggers surprises me at all because I do not compare their behavior with that of humans.
The only way to hate niggers and to justify the old, tired whigger accusation that racists are full of hate and spread hate and all that nonsense is only if you consider niggers human. It WOULD fill me up with hate and want to get revenge if a group of humans acted the same way niggers do and created so much misery, pain, and suffering in the world. But if you consider them as the animals that they are - a separate species from human - their actions do not surprise nor cause hate at all.
But it does fill me with a sense of bewilderment as to why we allow the nigger herd to run around completely unchecked and unmanaged. The destruction and drain on society they cause is appalling."

hmmm I wonder if the forger of this message knows that even anonymous posts can be tracked, and that police can get the information needed to prosecute.

of course, the best would be to get a internet guru to find out his home address and pass the information to some of the more rough and tumble guys that civilization has. sometimes a good beating can correct all sorts of problems.

Hello old friend, long time no see.

Now, as for niggermania.com it is full of allegedly true observations on a certain culture and it may 'incense' the more 'politically correct' warriors among us but by its very definition you know what the subjects going to be about and we do still have freedom of speech so why look at it?. Some of the language used may insult and shock some people but you want to hear what they say about us, what they call us and so on. Us being white US/GB citizens by the way.

Most of it is presented in an amusing light hearted way and personally the site is not something I'm involved in or condone personally, and in the long run, when you scream racism at people who have a view to express and try to stifle their freedom of speech then sites like these will always be around and grow.

Call a spade a spade I say, being frightened of someone branding you a racist for doing so.... who cares... as long as what you say is true and not just made up how can it be truly racist?

Anyhow what's wrong with racism. It's in all walks of life to a degree in some form or another. In Amateur terms it's M3's especially MM3's that get it and in uk.radio.amateur it's well noted among certain people. It is a slur against a whole group of people just because of the actions of one or two. (sound familiar?)

In football we want England to win the world cup. When we played Jamaica we were cheering the English team on and not the Jamaicans so is that racist? If you think about it, it could be thought of that way by the PC brigade.

And by the way, that works both ways round. Not just against Blacks or Asians but against whites too...

NOW... if you had not re-posted this"sick fuck's" original post I would have not noticed it or replied so why are you re-posting this for debate and not simply ignoring it??

And finally, if the term "Nigger" is so offensive why do so many black people (especially black rappers) use it to talk about their own colour then scream at us for using the term too? Double standards?? I think so.

Regards,
Graham

I wanted to make a public posting and state my thanks to Steve Franklin (WB5KGL apparently of Arlington, Texas), who uses name JSF in the usenet. I have 2 MR8100's - older Uniden scanners, and they've had some problems. Suspect that my previous repair shop was hoping to keep one of them for parts he offered to try and repair them for me. One I kept thinking it would be a fairly simple repair of a lead to the power switch, thought I was nervous about doing it myself.

The other I sent to him, and he found the problem and repaired it for me, just to help a guy out. I asked what I could do in thanks, and he didn't want anything.

In fact, his willingness to help and keep at it are what inspired me to repair the other unit myself - because simply, putting and solder set in my hands is asking for trouble.

Anyway - everyone should know there are still great people in the world, people who just like others, love their hobbies, and just do good things. I could be wrong here as this was only one action, but I feel that anyone willing to offer to help a stranger online, and then put the work in and some change to mail the item back, that shows solid character - old school - the way things should be.

THANK YOU STEVE FRANKLIN

Yeah the signal to noise ratio is high with the google-fuck posters, no question about it. I toss most of the stuff in this group as un-read lately.

If you want your info to be on file at a store that's "under investigation", that's up to you. You can read the list yourself. I'm saving you the trouble of reading about the pirate FM stations, the EPIRB activations, the tower structure violations and the EAS violations. If a ham gets busted, he's listed. If a shop gets it, you know about it.

You don't have to read them, you know.

Skip has been rolling. Did upstate NY. That's not a easy shot from here. (There's a violation for you! :)

Take care!

Hello,

I'm searching a modification for the CB President Jackson to bring it up to 30 Mhz.
I've searched on internet but I've only found simple modification to add "F" band and reach 271 channels.

Anyone know other modifications.

Thanks Paolo Italy

Since you use Xnews I will share some info I got from Steve on RRAP to kill all google posts.

After the bracketed name of the groups, you specify a score. I don't bother with elaborate scoring, and instead give all matches a score of -9999. That causes the matching posts to be killed.

So, for all of the rec.radio.amateur hierarchy, plus the flame_fest news group, you can use the following score file (lines starting with "%" are comments). Text case is ignored by default, so "get help" matches "GeT HElp" when specified below.

======(cut here)======
[rec.radio.amateur.*,alt.radio.scanner.flame_fest]
score:: -9999
% Uncomment the next two lines to kill all Google posts plus followups.
% Message-ID: googlegroups\.com

The score file above catches about 90% of the bad guys, even with Google posts and followups still allowed. If you block Google posts and followups, you can omit quite a few of the other rules.

small problem, I've been here for longer than he has... and I am a ham (go figure).

I used to be heavy on 11 meters for a long time. However, after a fiasco that erupted in 1993 and continued until late 1995, it ceased being worth ever going back.

as for "todd and co.", well, they will eventually fade from the radar (as more folks killfile them and their ISP's get tired of the complaints).

it sure would be nice to hear some real discussion about radios again. The again, if wishes were horses.......

Try here: http://www.anthrocon.org/
And here too! --> http://www.furry-furry.com/

THIS LOOKS TO BE RIGHT UP YOUR "ALLEY" so 2 speak. . . .

(...and from last Year's Convention....this bit:)

- This week Philadelphia plays host to Anthrocon 2005.
"Furries"-that's the term for people who dig anthropomorphic animal culture-will descend on the City of Brotherly Love from every corner of the U.S. Good, clean, wholesome dressing-up-in-giant-animal-costumes fun will be had by all.

Or will it? It turns out the furry world is split into two viciously snarling camps and rife with bizarre sexual practices.
Apparently some furries, known as "furverts," like to -fuckcuddly animal toys through strategically placed holes (SPHs).
Other furverts dress up in animal costumes and join other furverts in a "fur pile." Then-according to a 2001 Vanity Fair expose-they "yiff" and "skritch" one another, often ending up with their fur covered in "spooge."

This activity has provoked a savage backlash-not from "mundanes" (as we non-furries are known), but from within the furry community itself. A group calling itself Burned Fur wants furdom to go back to its allegedly nonsexual roots.
"If you've ever lusted after a German shepherd, own a harem of Care Bears, or consider yourself a reincarnated unicorn, you don't qualify," barks spokesfurry Squee Rat. "Burned Furs are furries who are tired of being associated with lunatics."
After the Vanity Fair article, other fan groups such as Trekkies, X Philes and Lovecrafters started calling the furries "skunk-fuckers." .....That hurt.

"I remember when being a pervert was a bad thing," rants Squee Rat in her savagely anti-furvert Furry

Manifesto. "If you were warped, you tried to hide it, and good for you if you did. If you were going to polish your rod to autopsy photos or bugger a Shetland pony, you did it in the privacy of your own sick, sad home. You're making us all look bad, goddamnit." But there's also a backlash to the backlash. Other furries-many proud to adopt the furvert label-have howled in fury at the Burned Fur "hate group." The Freezing Furs claim that Burned Fur is part of a sinister conspiracy out to destroy furdom. And they allege that a least one leading Burned Furry is a "Marxist supporter of dictatorial communism."

But furrydom isn't entirely split down the middle between the spooge-spraying furverts and their prudish opponents. Amid all the hissing and spitting, a peace movement has arisen. Two groups-Furry Peace and Nonaligned Furs-are trying desperately hard to spread furry peace and love throughout the ruptured movement. Personally speaking, my hope is that the Phillie Phanatic wanders into Anthrocon 2005 and is seized by a crazed pack of furvert wolverines, dragged inside and given the yiffing of his life. That's presuming they can find his "strategically placed hole", of course.

I have run double sideband suppressed carrier long time ago, but not on 27MHz, but 4 MHz... half a kilowatt or so....
It is a bit like SSB, but the 'exiter' electronics is much simpler, it can already be made with 4 diodes in a ring modulator (and 2 transformers).
I made an exiter with 4 diodes, and also one with double triodes (tubes ECC85).

These days it is relatively simple to make a phasing method single sideband exiter, in those days we had nice xtal filters, xf9A and xf9B at 9Mhz to filter out the unwanted sideband.

I would call it 'poor man's SSB'.
It is just AM without the carrier.... only the sidebands are used.

so? doesn't mean I won't post on a radio related group with "cb" in the name. I still haven't gone back to 11 meters though.... simply too much noise on there (its nice to have a short wave radio to listen to all the dumb clucks who think shouting "AUDIO" all day long is smart).

there is a difference. I, at least, have some information to impart. what do you do? you rattle cages and poke bears (getting off on it I see). you don't impart any real information, you argue needless;y and with no thought or reason. you are a loudmouth. you are an attantion seeker, a child in an adult's body. All I hear from you across multiples newsgroups is "waaah waah waah" why don't you grow up.

Yes, clearly ham policy is the last of the losers.
Would not have posted if I knew it went to those, clearly not a human species group.

Hello All:

Yeah Double Side band, suppressed carrier.

A lot of the CB radios use to transmit DSB, not SSB. Many commercial radios did also in commercial use. But as time has allowed for circuits to be made around a integrated circuit, SSB Single Side band has taken over, as its more efficient. Ya get more effective output with SSB than DSB.

Canadian Customs over his desires to crash the Bilderberger Meeting in Ottowa so he could use the half-ass footage he was hoping to get for another one of his $19.95 cheeseball videos. What an ASS!

also, as these forges constituted a violation of 47 USC 223, I have included that information in the e-mail as well.

Jay,

Yes... SSB has it's advantages... but several disadvantages. The main reason I stay away from SSB is the critical tuning. Somebody always comes on sounding like Donald Duck... LOL. I spend more time tuning people in then talking to them. And then there's the three way conversation... where you have to tune back and forth between the other two guys. Forget it. And last, there's alway the fact that until the CBs reach a stable operating temperature... your tuning like crazy. Nope, SSB is not for me... I have my DSB-SC... and it doesn't have those problems.

Something wrong here, DSB-SC received on a normal set can only be made 'inteligible' if it is received as SSB.
SSB is simply one sideband of the 2 DSB sends, so your BFO is [just as] critical.
If you BFO is of center (so you re-insert the wrong carrier) and your RX filter already removed the other sideband, then you have all the 'duck' sound of SSB.
Moderns CB sets have no 'DSB' option, only USB / LSB, so always use one sideband.
In case a set DOES pass both sideband, you get double the problem....

Maybe you mean something else by DSB-SC altogether? Leave SOME carrier?

The incredible popularity of "American Idol" and the World Cup are both proof that the bulk of humanity are too stupid to make their own decisions. If a "1-world government" means that France will no long exist, it will be a small price to pay.

Yes they are... but that doesn't mean we can go off topic once in a while. I don't personally condone that site by the way but can understand peoples frustrations at what they see. Like this week, the black guy who went on the roof and threw bricks at people below. Up there for ages he was and to satisfy the "human rights" people he had to have a bucket of KFC and a bottle of pop sent up to him.... bloody crazy... If it was a white guy they probably wouldn't have bothered as the PC brigade wouldn't have been interested, y'see to them it only works one way.

If it was down to me I'd have shot him down off the roof after a warning, with a rubber bullet. He wouldn't have been so brave then. That goes for anyone BTW, people are far too soft with criminals these days. Sometimes the police are just too afraid to arrest them.

DSB-SC (as you originally referred to) stands for:
Double Sideband Suppressed Carrier.
So, if the carrier is surpressed, then you have only 2 sidebands if a signal is present (single tone modulation), nothing if no modulation is present.
http://www.ece.drexel.edu/courses/ECE-S306/lab3.pdf
Look at figure 4, for a single tone modulating audio signal.
You will notice it is quite different from AM!

Normal AM is also DSB, but the carrier is not surpressed.
Better to say AM if you mean AM, DSB is often used for DSB-SC.

I looked at your document. It's exactly what I'm talking about AM... without a solid carrier at no modulation. That's exactly what mode I'm running. With my amplifier being able to key on a multiplexed signal from my radio... The DSB-SC mode really is impressive on the air at high power levels. I would never go back to pure AM mode. And you already know my feelings about SSB... it's got too many negatives for my liking.

Hmmm does not clear up confusion, do you receive it with an AM receiver and no BFO? Then it is no DSB-SC.

There exist AM modulation modes where the carrier is somewhat reduced during low modulation levels..... This wil lwork, but is still AM.
Maybe that is what you mean?

You will note the 'double phase rectifier' like waveform for DBS-SC.
In case of that modified AM you have sine wave.

So: if you can receive it on an AM receiver without BFO it is AM or a variant there of.
If you need a BFO in any way it is DSB-SC, SSB, LSB, USB whatever.

As far as range is concerned, SSB DSB will beat any system (with SSB being better then DSB).

The variable carrier level AM, if used to give some 'extra' power to the AM stage at high amplitudes, will give some extra rane.
however for weak passages in the audio there will be more noise then a similar AM system with noraml carrier, as simply there will be less carrier output.

Some AM broadcast statons, if not all? Use that system.

But who knows HiFi these days.. mp3... low bitrates...

my God man- get a fucking LIFE- use your email software program to create a "delete at server" or a "blocked sender" list, and put the guy's email addy in there, and you don't have to read his posts anymore. You self-appointed "spam cops" create more havoc on Google,

I have a life, thank you. As far as "Google", I guess that you're too retarded to notice that I'm on Usenet and "Google" is hijacking my posts to show on their crappy HTML interface.

YOU need to get a life and stop whining about every rule you don't like. USENET has always been self policing. Newsgroups that don't, end up as useless dumping grounds for spam that no one reads.

For instance, its considered to be very low life to keep changing your screen ID, and against the TOS of most ISPs. I'm tired of creating new filters for your moth eaten ass, boy.

I guess you're right. In the strictest sense DSB-SC, there is no transmission of the carrier at all. That is not the mode I'm talking about. I guess I was using DSB-SC interchangably with the mode where the carrier is only temporarily supressed. I would certainly not be interested in the mode where the carrier is no longer transmitted... for the same reason I don't like like the SSB mode... mainly the constant fussing over the tuning. Thanks for the correction...

Bet you do not know what 'coherent detection' is.

because if you did, you would not have written that.

Ok, now rent a brain for a day, and thinks.

*IF you have an AM receiver, and set the transmitetr carrier to zero, as in the case of DSB-SC with no modulation (= silence remember), then what WOULD you hear?
I will tell you: All the noise in the band.
Not good for silence, specially if good conditions exist!

So you could have figured that out if you had been created with a brain.

Also, you did not bother to look up the waveform, you just write some bull, never even designed a DSB-SC transmitter, much less ever used one.

No this is perhaps not a politically correct answer, but hopefully you wil lread those papers, gooogle DVB-SC, and learn something, and then stop spreading dis-information.

Do not listen to him, it is 100% nonsense.

Very simply:
An AM detector is an 'enveloppe' detector,
a DSB and SSB detector is a 'product detector'.

You have seen that waveform I pointed out in fig 4 for a sine wave single tone modulation, the amplitude of the RF signal dos not really look like a sinewave does it?

So you hear sever distortion, in fact you cannot make out what it is.

In a product detector the BFO is the 'substitute' carrier, and multiplication of one (SSB) or both (DSB) sideband[s] gives the original modulation.

There is in fact no need for the 'other' sideband in DSB-SC, no problem if the receiver filters it out, that is why you can receive DSB-SC both with USB and LSB!

But for the non-believers, try it out, all you need is an audio amp, oscillator, 4 diodes, and of course a 27 HHz xtal oscillator.
http://www.nzart.org.nz/nzart/examinat/Amateur%20Radio%20Study%20Guide/Course%20Files/Mixe
rs.htm

There is a description and diagram a bit down on the page.

Listen to it on an AM receiver, and you will KNOW.

DSB-SC reception is not restricted to just SSB-SC receivers. A DSB-SC signal can be received by reinjecting the carrier, even on a DSB receiver.

DSB-SC stands for Double Sideband Supressed Carrier.

So let me get this straight... In DSB-SC... both sidebands are transmitted... but there is no carrier sent at all? Correct?... and the carrier is re-inserted at the receiver.

Now with the swing set-up... both sidebands are transmitted... along with the carrier... but the carrier's amplitude changes from extremely low to a normal AM carrier when the modulation is added.

There is no carrier. It's like listening to LSB and USB at the same time. If you remove half the ssb signal, say LSB, you would hear more of the donald duck sound due to the reduced size of the bandwidth. Just forget AM carrier when talking DSB-SC as it just isn't there. DSB is AM and when the carrier is removed you have DSB-SC

Anyone know of a cheap place to buy 6 conductor mic cord (or 5 conductor with shield for the purists)? I came across an old 40 channel Truetone that I'm thinking of putting in my truck, paint it camo to match. I think it's pretty nifty, if your into old transistor oddities take a look: http://www.geocities.com/drdeath555usb/truetone.jpg

A product Detector is prefered due to its mixer characteristics. Being balanced, the two inputs are supressed sufficiently to make filtering their components in the output much easier. Product detectors and Envelope dection is not the only means of detecting DSB-SC and DSB-LC signals. They are the most simplest and easiest to implement.

Distortion of the RF waveform may not nescessarily indicate that the detected audio is unintelligable. As long as the recovered audio is reproduced accuarately during demodulation then there is no distortion. Spectral content of the demodualted signal can be set by post detection filtering. This can reduce to some extent the harmonics of the modulating signal.

By the way the lab you point to is more about the generation of a DSB signal. From figure 4 you are making statements about demodulation.

Since the information in both sidebands are indentical the only need

Not exactly. Supressed carrier is just that. The carrier is suppressed by a desired amount measured in dBs. It can be fully suppressed or partially supressed.

>+++Now with the swing set-up... both sidebands are transmitted... along

There is several techniques that has been used in amatuer radio for many decades. One stems from the old tube days called grid modulation.
What happens here is that the modulated stage, usually the final RF stage, has the modulation signal applied to the grid of the tube. By varying the grid voltage at an audio rate, the bias on the tube varies. This will change the gain of the tube. What happens then is when there is no modulation signal the tube is at or near cutoff and there is little carrier. As you modulate the carrier varies at an audio rate. Disadvantage of this method is the maximum percentage of modulation is about 85%.

Another method is one sed by the Drake 4 line series of transmitters.
This is where modulation is applied to a low level stage. Usually a balanced modulator. To achieve AM, the balanced modulator is slightly kicked off balanced to allow a small amount of carrier to appear at the output. With modualtion this will vary some. Subsequent stages of amplification will bring the signal up to the desired level.

You have to remember that in DSB-SC and in SSB tranmission the audio, modulating signal, spectrum is mixed up to the desire frequency range. In these voice signals the audio is now moved u p in the frequency spectrum. That is essentially what modulation does, frequency transform. In both DSB-SC and SSB, your are now transmitting a band of frequencies that is equaly to the voice bandwidth at varying power densities.

In DSB-LC, the carrier goes along for the ride to demodulate the signals at the receiver. The carrier does not carry ant information at all.

Yes... at least the discussion is something interesting... instead of dougie this and dougie that... whoever dougie is... LOL

I still trying to research this topic.... since there seems to be considerably different views of DSB-SC out here. I'm starting to think my original statement that a very high swing AM transmission can be considered a DSB-SC... and requires no special BFO tuning.

Nope, if you listen with your rig set to AM and the transmission is DSB-SC you will hear a garbled mess. If you set both rigs to AM and lower the deadkey to say an 1/8 watt with 15 watts of swing you can understand the low dead key rig.

I agree that we finally have a topic worth discussing. The sad part is you call yourself a professor, and design and build amps, leading one to believe you know about radio, yet are having a tough time grasping the DSB-SC theory

It can be received even on an AM receiver if you feed in a local oscillator at fc, I have done this, so what is your point?

I have used sampling to demodulate QAM, In any color TV you will find it, carrier is regenerated in phase from the color burst, look up NTSC.
And there we have 2 modulating systems, here is how that works in the time domain:
http://groups.google.com/group/sci.electronics.design/browse_frm/thread/7c255662d71bd734/b4ce23fcbb253646?lnk=st&q=panteltje+quadrature+time+domain&rnum=4#b4ce23fcbb253646

The main thing is perhaps that you can see that in SSB, if we have 1MHz carrier, and 1kHz sine modulation, we get a 1.001 MHz carrier (or 0.999 if the other sideband is used.
So to get the original back, it would be sufficient to substract the 1MHz again in the first case (1.001 - 1) = 1kHz, or in the other case 1 - .999.

In the DSB-SC case we would have 1.001 AND .999 AT THE SAME TIME.

Using one sideband is enough. DSB uses double the bandwidth and as such is less efficient then SSB,

>Distortion of the RF waveform may not nescessarily indicate that the

But it won't [work].
What the 4 diode ring modulator does, is make a RF amplitude phase phi when the audio signal goes positive proportional to the audio amplitude, and the same with phase phi+180 degrees when the audio signal goes negative.
If you do AM envelope detector (as the you normally do with a diode and RC lowpass) you get a wave form that is no longer a sine, but looks like double phase rectified sine when filtered.

Of course, lok at that waveform, build a 'non distorting AM detector for it without carrier re-insertion (BFO, some oscillator), you CANNOT.
Modulation /demodulation is related.

Please build one, try it,

>Since the information in both sidebands are indentical the only need >for the second sideband is to increase demodulated audio.

Yes, we agree here.

Please try it:

But for the non-believers, try it out, all you need is an audio amp, oscillator, 4 diodes, and of course a 27 HHz xtal oscillator.
http://www.nzart.org.nz/nzart/examinat/Amateur%20Radio%20Study%20Guide/Course%20Files/Mixe
rs.htm
There is a description and diagram a bit down on the page.

Listen to it on an AM receiver, and you will KNOW.

I thought this was very helpful for me.
http://www.williamson-labs.com/480_dsb.htm
It shows that in DSB-SC... both sidebands are transmitted (they are RF) and that no carrier is ever transmitted. The carrier would have to be added back at the receiver. I believe that would have the same critical tuning issues as SSB.

I'm not sure why anyone would want to do this as all the intelligence is contained in a single sideband anyway.

So it appears that DSB-SC is not much different than SSB-SC. I guess that really figured.

I was wrong in using DSB-SC and a mode that is basically AM (with a greatly reduced carrier that increases via modulation) interchangeably.
It now is apparent they are not the same.

The reason was 'poor man's SSB', in the early days it was difficult to make a phased exiter, or expensive to buy the required xtal filters to filter out the unwanted sideband.

In the tube days it was difficult to make a stabe double balanced mixer with double triodes.. carrier surpression was drifting, sideband surpression was changing.

These days somebody even has it all in programabe logic FPGA
http://www.microtelecom.it/digimit/techart.htm
http://www56.homepage.villanova.edu/scott.sawyer/fpga/II_frequency_shifting.htm

Now we can really shift gears to a slightly higer tech level and discus digital signal procesing and filtering.

In my view, from a cost point of view, if a complete digtal receiver transmitter plus display is done in one FPGA chip (apart from the power amp) this may well be the future.
FPGAs are still expensive, but since then all hardware is re-programmable, new features (whatever) could be added by software update.

I did a nice frequency counter on an FPGA lab board:
http://panteltje.com/panteltje/fpga/frequency_counter-0.2.1.bz2

So you can re-program some of these boards to do -anything- from games to counter to SSB exiter, to video timebase corrector, to mp3 player, to what not, crypto...
For a hobbyist ideal to experiment, fater then playing with PIC microprocessors, the new FPGA logic works in the hundreds of MHz, has >6 gigabit serial links....
Likely we will hear more from that tech.

Here is a challenge.

We seem to be hung up on abbreviations and their applications to analog communications.

A list of Abbreviation in analog Modulation from Introduction to Communications System Third Edition by Ferrel G. Stremler. This is taken from my Communications Textbook from college.

1)AM AMplitude Modulation: A CW modulation using amplitude variation in proportion to the amplitude of the modulating signal. Usually taken as DSB-LC for commercial broadcast transmission and DSB-SC for multiplexed systemes.

2) CW COntinuous Wave: A carrier signal (usually sinusoidal) used for modulation or keying.

3) DSB Double Sideband(LC or SC): a signal having two spectral sidebands symetrically balanced with respect tothe carrier frequency.

4) LC Large Carrier: a signal in which a relatively large proprotion of the spectrum is concentrated at the carrier frequency (used with DSB, SSB, and VSB).

5) SC Supressed Carrier: a signal in which a relatively small proportion (ideally zero) of the spectrum is is concentrated at the carier frequency (used with DSB, SSB, VSB).

Now translating into CB lingo AM and DSB-LC are synonymous. That is what nearly all off the shelf AM CB radios produce. Modulation takes place in the final stage before the antenna. There are some that use low level modulation that follow the modulated stage with further amplification afterwards to raise the power density to a level to effect the desired communication range with the intended antenna system.

Please note that the difference between Large Carrier and Suppressed carrier can be used with DSB, SSB and VSB amplitude systems. The difference is the role the carrier itself plays in demodulaztion ONLY! In DSB it is generally accepted that both sidebands carry the same information during modualation. SSB is defined as a spectrum in which only one sideband is trransmitted with or without the carrier. Vestigial Sideband is where one full sideband is and a partial of the other sideband is not fully transmitted. TV signals are VSB signals.

hope this helps

'bz2' is a compressed format, it is open source, and frequently used in Linux.
It has a higher compression ratio then for exmpel 'zip' or tgz.
the correct way to 'unpack' it in Linux / unix is:
tar -jxvf frequency_counter-0.2.1.bz2
In MS windows there is as far as i knwo no correct way to do anything, so I cannot help you there.
You would only find verilog source files anyways, and then complain you cannot read verilog (language), that posting really was on level3, you were still on level 1.

Like I told you, WinRAR opened (uncompressed) the file (unpack[ed] it in your language)...

I could really give a shit less what planet you are on, I asked a simple question, all you had to do was answer it without your nasty attitude.

It was nice of you to provide a link, however I'd roughly guess that over 98% of the people reading this group, including the person you replied to, does not use Linux, and therefore would have no use for the file. Oh, and since you have a cocky attitude about you, let me return the favor... IT'S "example", NOT "exmpel"!

Yea, but we were actually playing a game, although you may not have known when you dropped into to it.

The issue of the game is to 'up the tech level' the top level is unlimited.

Verilog, as hardware description langue is not bound to any OS.
It is just a text format to describe how gates and other logic is connected in a chip.

Somebody else has already explained how to unpack that file on a Billy Gates OS.

Yea the spelling, often lots of data distortion from this planet.

Let me fix it for you Eric (Nice editing)

http://tinyurl.com/rcdcy

Everytime you post this dribble you look like an idiot. You going to threaten me now? Remember, you DON'T play Games (LMFAO).
It took tens of dozens of complaints, from a number of people to get Geo's ISP to stop him from Nym shifting, WTF you think MSN is going to do with your one complaint? Oh, that's right, YOU don't play games, so they'll pay more attention to you than the thousands of other complaints they get an hours time..... If you and Mark would stop responding to these idiots and cross posting this crap, maybe they'll stop ruining Rec.Radio.CB.

All right... let's not let this discussion deteriorate into something like Steveo and DrDeath would participate in... LOL
The facts (or lack of) have been presented. It's up to the individual to research this topic further and draw his (or her) own conclusion.

Frankly, I thought it was rather interesting... and if it'll make anyone happy out there... I admit to being wrong. That said, I'm looking forward to seeing some other interesting threads.

OH, Jeeezz, that hurt. Please Mr Oyen, you are so smart, don't hurt my feelings..... ROTFLMFAO!!!!

Think about this, If you & Mark would not respond, IGNORE those posts that are OBVIOUSLY made to get a response (You know, cross posted to 4, 5, 6 plus groups with nothing about radio), maybe this crap would settle down. Rec CB had gone down to maybe 13 to 20 posts a day, a lot to do about radio, but you either weren't around, or refuse to see that (I believe the later myself, considering your view of cb & attitude all together).

you know being GONE for years did not stop such posts it did leave them confined to RRAp and so down their number but nothing else

Indeed findingthat they were still being made regualrly in RRAp made decide if thsi is going to go one I might as well be ther and respond that are getting crossposted to more gruops shows my response is not what is desired, your more like is what is desired

now in the end You problems reading RRCB or RRAP any other part of usenet are your bussness not mine

if you want to complain about someone track down the IP;'s the truly offending parties after you calim to repost myself to no effoect why don't you try fixing the problem instaed of being part of it

So, if I were to try "viewing" this in a text editor, I should be able to see it? Let try...

I see where I had a problem... The decompressed file needed to be decompressed as well. Now the folder shows it's face, with all files within... :) I jumped the gun too soon... Got it now.. TAR archive

Mark, did it ever cross your miniscule brain that;

If you quit responding to flaming that things might be easier for you?

If you quit giving ammo to your enemies that things might be easier for you?

If you stopped the crossposting as I did that things might be easier for your?

If you used a little common sense that things might be easier for you?

Or, is it that you crave the attention so much, no matter how negative that it is, that you just cannot HELP YOURSELF?

You have made yourself the laughingstock of Usenet, no matter how you believe otherwise or want to paint yourself into the victim role. Can you not see that, Man? Really, and it's not just me, but others as well who are tired of seeing your life trashed here, and exposed for all to see. We don't care what you want to do, whom you wish to have sex with, whether or not you have AIDs, etc. Your life does not belong in r.r.cb. You brought it here.
Please do us a favor and remove the crossposting when you reply to being bashed in another group. "Get help" to every post gets really old, and shows just how childish you are in your defense of yourself. You will not, nor can you ever hope to change the views of those that you have made yourself vulnerable to. To continue to waste bandwith, and keep spamming 5-8 groups with your replies is irresponsible, and frankly lazy on your part. Please do us a favor, and take the time to read where the post are coming from, and to snip the groups that don't apply. R.R.CB being the one that has no ties to you. Your enemies are in R.R.A.P. Please deal with them there.

Have a great day!

OK, I will explain a bit... if you look with the text editor at the file
'top.v' you will first see 'module top' think of a module as an electronic digital circuit.

The top module is like a big diagram that is made up of all these separate circuits, other modules, like for example 'lcd_text_driver', 'b2bcd0', 'txua0', all separate diagrams.

In this case nothing is analog, so no AD DA conversions.

You will see 'wire' for exactly what it is, wires that connect things, OBUF IOBUF for digital buffers, and 'reg' for a register, basically one or more flipflops....

If circuits get very large, diagrams quickly become unreadable and difficult to modify.
Languages like Verilog make it easy to maintain and design large complicated digital circuits, and are portable across many platforms (schematic editors are not).
In an FPGA (Field Programmable Gate Array) many CMOS switches are used to connect all sorts of logic blocks together.
There exist (free) programs that read the Verilog text files, create a binary file for some FPGA chip, that you can then program into such a chip, and the chip will set the switches, your Verilog design will be created in the chip without you soldering one single connection.
The Spartan2 FPGA I used has has the equivalent of some 200,000 logic gates, so quite a lot can be done.
There are many free projects look for example here:
http://www.opencores.org/browse.cgi/by_category

http://www.fpga4fun.com/

There are many of those prototype boards, best get one with VGA connector and audio stuff, the relevant newsgroup is comp.arch.fpga.
But it is only limited by ones own imagination....

So that was some more ...
Will throttle back a bit now and see what he effect of this is.....

Mark can't be blammed for his horse shit.We as a society are to blame. There was a time when a person with Mark's problem would have just been sent to a mental hospital and forgotten about. We have been told it is his lifestyle,not really an illness. Main stream America allowed this to happen.

Mark is just one small example of what happens when sickness runs unchecked. I hope one day this will change. When enough people (silent majority?) stand up and say enough is enough people like Morgan will crawl back into the shadows or face proper judgement.

I never claimed victim status, I can hold my own on Usenet. You on the other hand are unable to decipher a header or properly use Google. Markie-tard has been on my killfile list (16 listings) for some time. If you knew how to Google you would see a long standing battle between us concerning his gay postings. And yet here you are making homo comments. If you want to come out of the closet then do so.....on another news group. BTW, I and the rest of the non-trolls that were in this discussion would like to thank you for making an ass of yourself.

BWHAHAHAHA Markie is proud of it!

You direct the same words at almost everyone who takes the time to mock your many shortcomings; such as your inability to construct logical arguments, your limited vocabulary, your utter failure at projecting even a tiny bit of personality in your writing, the lack of character that prevents you from admitting your mistakes, your total lack of flaming ability, your choice of newsgroups, your hair style, your lisp, your semi-famous effort to conduct a comparative study of the taste of semen, and many others I must elide from this article due to space constraints.

Because of this, the words have lost any effect it might otherwise possess. Because you limply toss it in the ring every time someone gets the better of you - i.e. every time you try your fairy hand against someone who isn't a fellow faggot - you've successfully emasculated the words through overuse.

Also, your use of them are very, very boring.

HI MY NAME IS FRED... GOODLOOKIN SONOFABITCH, BUT HORNY AS HELL. ALWAYS GETTIN ME IN TROUBLE. LIKE LAST WEEK. I WAS OUT ON A RUN OVER TO LEXINGTON--MAIN LINE KEEPS ON BREAKIN AND THE FOREMAN COMES DOWN ON MY ASS ABOUT IT. ANYWAY, I SAW THIS OLD SIGN ON THE SIDE OF THE ROAD: 'SCOTTY'S TRUCK-STOP HOME-COOKED FOOD FACILITIES SHOWERS 24 HR. SERVICE'. I DON'T EVER REMEMBER SEEIN THAT SIGN BEFORE, AND I WAS ALREADY GETTIN BORED, SO I THOUGHT I'D GET A CUP OF COFFEE..AND CHECK OUT THE MEN'S ROOM. I'VE SEEN ENOUGH OF THE SOUTH'S FINEST DICK IN THEM PLACES TO KNOW THAT THERE'S SURE TO BE SUMPTHIN FOR ME TO SUCK, IF NUTHIN ELSE.

TYPICAL SETUP. BRICK RESTAURANT/STORE PAINTED WHITE BUT STAINED REAL BAD WITH CRANKCASE OIL, DEISEL PUMPS, AND A SHITLOAD OF SEMI'S PARKED ON THE LEFT. SO I GO IN, LOOKIN AROUND THE STORE SOME BEFORE I HIT THE RESTAURANT. GOT TO GET ME SOME NEW MUDFLAPS. THE ONES I GOT NOW LIKE TO WORE OUT ON ME.

ANYWAY, SO I HAVE MY COFFEE-TASTES LIKE SHIT BUT AT LEAST IT'S HOT. I'M LOOKIN AROUND THE ROOM AT THE GUYS. NOT BAD. IT'S ABOUT 4 IN THE AFTERNOON, SO THE PLACE IS STARTIN TO FILL ON UP WITH TRUCKERS ON THE AFTERNOON COFFEE BREAK. SOME HUNKS OUT THERE. THIS ONE GUY IS REAL BIG, LONG DIRTY-BLONDE HAIR WITH A BIG, FULL, BUSHY BEARD, AND HE'S WEARIN A FADED PLAID SHIRT AND THESE GREEN WORK PANTS..ONLY THEY LOOK SORTA BLACK FROM THE GREASE..AND MUD COVERED WORK BOOTS. HE SEES ME LOOKIN AT HIM AND HE DON'T LIKE IT ONE BIT. COURSE HE DON'T KNOW I'M TURNED ON TO HIM, BUT HE GIVES ME THIS LOOK LIKE 'WHAT THE FUCK DO YOU WANT?' REAL MEAN.

SO I TURN BACK AROUND AND SEE THIS OTHER DUDE JUST WALKIN IN..HE'S GOT BROWN HAIR AND BLUE EYES, AND ONE O THEM FU-MANCHU MUSTACHES, YOU KNOW,HE SAYS HI GOODLOOKIN` CALL ME ``DR`` AND I SAID YA OK DR IM FRED COMES DOWN ON THE SIDE OF HIS FACE, ALL THE WAY TO HIS CHIN. ONLY HE AIN'T SHAVED IN A FEW DAYS, SO HIS FACE IS PURTY WELL COVERED IN THIS LIGHT BROWN STUBBLE. A REAL RAUNCHY LOOKIN MOTHERFUCKER. LOOKS LIKE EVERYBODY IN THE PLACE IS STRAIGHT CEPT FOR ME..I FIGURE I MIGHT GET MYSELF IN TROUBLE IF I KEEP ON LOOKIN, SO I PAY FOR THE COFFEE AND HEAD FOR THE LATRINE.

IT'S EMPTY, BUT I CAINT HARDLY BELIEVE THE SETUP IN THERE.. YOU WALK IN AND THERE'S A COUPLA URINALS RIGHT STRAIGHT IN FRONT OF YOU..THE KIND THAT COME OUT OF THE WALL LIKE A BOWL. I LIKE THAT KIND THE BEST, CAUSE CAINT NOBODY HIDE NOTHIN IF THEY WANTA PEE. THERE'S A WALL OF SINKS AND A RUBBER DISPENSER ON THE RIGHT, AND ON THE LEFT, THREE TOILET STALLS. AT FIRST I'M DISAPPOINTED CAUSE THE STALL WALLS ARE MADE OF CINDERBLOCK AND THERE AIN'T NO HOLES IN BETWEEN EM OR NUTHIN. ONLY THEN I NOTICE WHAT A BEAUTIFUL SETUP IT IS..THE DOORS OF THE STALLS ARE MADE OF WOODEN SLATS, FACING UP ON THE OUTSIDE, SO THE DUDE INSIDE CAN SEE OUT PURTY EASY, BUT IT'S REAL HARD FOR SOMEBODY TO SEE IN. AND THE END STALL FACES RIGHT INTO THE SIDE OF THE LEFT-HAND URINAL.

SO I GO IN, PULL MY PANTS DOWN AND SIT ON THE END CRAPPER AND WAIT. THE FLOOR OF THE STALL IS COVERED IN GRIME AND CIGARET ASHES, AND THE TOILET HAS YELLOW

STAINS ALL AROUND THE BOWL. THERE IS A COUPLA DAYS WORTH O OLD PUBIC HAIRS ALL OVER THE RIM. IT'S STEAMIN HOT AND IT SMELLS REAL AWFUL IN THERE BUT I'M GETTIN WILDER AND WILDER IN THERE THINKIN ABOUT WHAT I'M GONNA SEE.

THE MENSROOM DOOR SLAMS OPEN, AND A GUY COMES RIGHT UP TO THE LEFT URINAL. I CAINT SEE HOW HE LOOKS WITHOUT STANDING UP, AND HE WHIPS OUT HIS DICK SO FAST I ONLY HAVE TIME TO GET MY FACE DOWN TO COCK LEVEL. IT'S A FAIRLY LONG PIECE O MEAT, AND IT IS UNCUT, WITH A FORESKIN THAT COVERS THE HEAD UP AND COMES TO A POINT. MY OWN IS DIFFERENT THAN THAT, BUT I JUST LIKE DICK IN ANY SIZE OR SHAPE..DON'T MATTER.

WELL, DR DON'T EVEN PULL THE SKIN BACK..HE MUSTA BEEN DRINKIN A LOT O COFFEE OR SUMPM, CAUSE HE LETS LOOSE A GUSHER. MUST BE A COUPLA GALLONS AT LEAST. IT COMES OUT IN A DARK YELLOW STREAM, AND HE IS IN SUCH A HURRY THAT IT SPLASHES ALL OVER THE FLOOR. AS I'M WATCHIN THIS FUCKER PEE, I NOTICE A LOT OF ...AH SHIT NOW WE ARE GONNA HAVE 3SOME CAUSE IN WALKS U-KNOW-WHO DANNYS BUTTBUDDIE

Yah, I know what you mean. Why can't it be as simple as turning on a CB, and picking one of forty channels to Fart & Belch on all night with all the other good buddies round town. What's a retard to do?

Guess we gots to keep seeing markie spam.

I'm Still Spamming

(Elton John/Bernnie Taupin/Mark C. Morgan, kb9rqz)
[From the album "Markie's I.Q. is Too Low For Zero"]

You could never know what it's like
When you marry a jewish/polish transexual bulldyke
And if there's a cold lonely light that shines from you You'll wind up like the wreck I hide behind those sockpuppets I use in newsgroups

And did you think this fool could never win
Well look at me, I'm spamming again and again
I got a taste of love in a simple way
And if you need to know why I'm still spamming Wismen just post away

Don't you know I'm still spamming better than I ever did Deluding myself that I look like a true survivor, whining like a little kid
I'm still spamming after all this time
Picking up the pieces of my life with Wismen on my mind

I'm still spamming yeah yeah yeah
I'm still spamming yeah yeah yeah

Once I never could hope to win
You post down the road leaving me to spam again
The threats you made were meant to cut me down
And if the newsgroups were just a circus I'd be a clown by now

Don't you know I'm still spamming better than I ever did Deluding myself that I look like a true survivor, whining like a little
kid
I'm still spamming after all this time
Picking up the pieces of my life with Wismen on my mind

I'm still spamming yeah yeah yeah
I'm still spamming yeah yeah yeah

I'm Still Spamming

(Elton John/Bernnie Taupin/Mark C. Morgan, kb9rqz)
[From the album "Markie's I.Q. is Too Low For Zero"]

You could never know what it's like
When you marry a jewish/polish transexual bulldyke
And if there's a cold lonely light that shines from you You'll wind up like the wreck I hide behind those sockpuppets I use in
newsgroups

And did you think this fool could never win
Well look at me, I'm spamming again and again
I got a taste of love in a simple way
And if you need to know why I'm still spamming Wismen just post away

Don't you know I'm still spamming better than I ever did Deluding myself that I look like a true survivor, whining like a little
kid
I'm still spamming after all this time
Picking up the pieces of my life with Wismen on my mind

I'm still spamming yeah yeah yeah
I'm still spamming yeah yeah yeah

Once I never could hope to win
You post down the road leaving me to spam again
The threats you made were meant to cut me down
And if the newsgroups were just a circus I'd be a clown by now

Don't you know I'm still spamming better than I ever did Deluding myself that I look like a true survivor, whining like a little
kid
I'm still spamming after all this time
Picking up the pieces of my life with Wismen on my mind

I'm still spamming yeah yeah yeah
I'm still spamming yeah yeah yeah

If I might answer your question, what did we lose: what you lose on the moderated web blogs is annonymity. Yes, you can have annonymity more or less, but somebody somewhere has to approve your posting and your password, and they have your email, it is a bit more of a digital paper chain than on usenet.

You also lose the ability to go off topic. Some fora are more strict in this regards than others, but there it is: sometimes relating one issue to something seemingly off-topic is lost, with it, the freedom to address big picture questions.

You lose the ability to cross post.

Etc... there are many others

So your nym is a child's character and your making sexually explicit comments about an underage child. You are showing classic symptoms of pedophilia and I truly think you are a danger to any children you come into contact with. I plan to document your posts and headers and send them to the proper authorities, as you are truly sick, and have probably already acted upon your urges. Probably clear up some unsolved rape and or missing /dead children.

Keep spewing it. You just show how sick you are. Usually people that are pedophiles such as you, were molested themselves as children. Who was it? Your dad, your uncle, the guy down the street that got you high on drugs? I would ask you to just go away and leave to radio groups to people that have radios, but sexually deviant trolls don't care and in fact enjoy the disruption that it causes, so I know you won't just leave. I could killfile you, but you would just nym shift. I could use xnews, but trolls like you do not deserve my time to learn new software. So my plan is to let you say what you will, and anything that has sexually descriptive content involving children will be saved along with your header and I will at some point start sending it to different law enforcement agencies, and something may possibly come of it, or maybe not. Your the person that will have that in the back of your mind to worry about, and if you are not worried in the least, then you are truly a sociopath.

Do yourself and the public at large a favor while your at it.
Get good and loaded on suds and whiskey then go take a leisurely drive someplace. With luck you'll T-Bone at an intersection into a minivan full of gooks from vietnam or a pickup truck filled with illegal mexicans.
Sure, it's just a drop in the bucket but every bit helps! :)

Hello DrDeath:

Yeah thats a good deal!

Got a BBQ and later afternoon get together to go to, lots of food, Pot Luck style. Get to meet a lot of great people and mingle. They have all the great Rock n Roll on a 100 CD player, so the music is also great.

Gave up drinkin years ago tho. Beer and Crown Royal will make ya put shit back ya didn't steal!

Enjoy your self will be listening in on 38 lower.

I've noticed most CB's seem to have the same plug for power, it this an industry standard? They all have a three pin plug with only the outer pins used for power and ground, has the center pin ever been used/defined?

THERE'S NOTHING LIKE A MORGAN HOLIDAY!

WE STARTED OUT EARLY. I CROWLED INTO FATHER'S BED AT 5:30AM. DEAR OLD DAD AWORE TO ME WORKING HIS COCK WITH MY VELVET MOUTH. IT SURE DIDN'T TAKE HIM LONG TO EXPLODE INTO MY MOUTH.THEN I FEASTED ON A HOT SCAT BREAKFAST FRESH FROM DAD'S SHIT BAG. THEN I KISSED DAD RIGHT ON THE MOUTH WHILE CUPPING HIS BALLS.

Hello PMR446 Users!!

The company which provides the go.to URL for the PMR446 Users Form [alias Yellow Forum] seems to have taken their advertising campaign to a new extreme with some kind of sub-window and an extremely dodgy spyware type pop-up window which I suspect could land users in some difficulty with their computer systems.

This had led me to seriously think about the future of this discussion forum. It does seem that some people do still use it, so I will not close it down. However I have now applied for a new URL which should be working now.

The new URL is:

www.446forum.tk [formerly http://go.to/pmr446]

This provider does use advertising but seems to choose its customers better than the go.to provider.

Hopefully this change will improve things and will go smoothly. Please, if you have a link to this forum alter your link to the new URL.

This discussion forum is in no way connected to any other site with '446forum' contained in its URL.

Happy 446ing

JOHN

So what is your point? Is it that CBers are stupid? Or is it that CBers vote democrat?
If Bush didn't listen to "Lazy Stupid" people, we would not even be in Iraq.
Maybe you missed it when they never found any WMDs in Iraq, which is why we went to begin with. He obviously listens to "Lazy Stupid" people, like Russian intelligence. I'm sure if you try hard enough, he will even listen to you.
Before you label me a liberal, I voted for Bush

Because you CB retards go where they're NOT WANTED, the lower end of the 10 meter ham band.

Get your retarded CB ass's off 10 meters this instant. We don't want to hear your farting and belching communications. Keep it on 27.185 where it belongs, then maybe we'll think about leaving this group. Ten-Four?

Sounds like there isn't much of a standard then. I was wanting to use it to feed power in for the lights on the front and then use the dimmer knob for the lights for something like a talkback circuit.

Since I am of Native American ancestry, the airwaves belong to my people.
Therefore all non Native Americans must immediately surrender their license.
We will allow you to monitor transmissions as we plan to use the airwaves to advertise our casinos.

No, I see a newsgroup clown that can't accept the fact that this man learned to succeed despite his dyslexia. Instead of offering ideas that could help him learn code you decide to insult him. You sit and whine about how ham radio is going to shit because they allow no code tech licensing and possibly doing away with code altogether. But you missed the biggest point with ham radio it was to help people. Did you help this man by offering alternative options to learn code? No, you insult him instead. It is you and your kind that will be the downfall of ham radio. Blame yourself.

Why do you find the need to boost your (lack of) self-confidence by insulting this person by comparing him to Mark? Mark chooses to sit on his ass sucking the entitlement system dry and contributing nothing to society, while this person decided to make the best of his what God gave him and he contributes to the same entitlement system that Mark chooses to deplete.

Earl you are not the Pearl of wisdom, you are the faux Pearl that trolls to enhance your (lack of) self-esteem.

Something I just thought of at the spur of the moment (not to mention keeps me on topic), some disabled person should sue to remove ALL code requirements, or offer an exclusion to those with disabilities to not have to take ANY code test under the Americans with Disability Act. I'm sure that person could even get a free ACLU lawyer to handle it.

India is not a country we rely on to build super companies (for lack of a better term). Take a look at what we send to India. Toxic chemical factories that would be choked to death by special interest groups and politicians. We also outsource technical support, which is a waste of time and money, good thing companies don't pay them much, but it's a cheap way of saying "we have tech support" without truly having it. Look at the shoe mfg. industry, all moved to third world slave labor countries. Good for the shoe industry as they no longer have to deal with unions and we keep management and development in countries that have the talent and resources to maintain state of the art products. Look at how the auto industry has changed. They sent 1000s of jobs overseas to cut down on union labor (with management and R&D in the US), and the Japs are opening plants in the US (with management and R&D in Japan) that will never deal with the UAW. I could go on forever with this post (and talk about NAFTA), but will end my rave at this point. BTW, changed subject header as it didn't seem to fit. I would have trimmed a few NGs but am unsure what groups you are subscribed to.

No thanks, I prefer to chat with a better class of people. Besides, when they drop the code requirements, we will take over the ham bands and have multiband keydowns. CBers have bigger amps.

Feed the lights from the power switch and you can still use the dimmer for talkback. If the center pin is not connected to anything (in most cases it's not), you can still use it, but it will need to be switched or the lights will remain on when the unit is off. I would go with using the power switch to control your lights.

Many years ago, 1950s, there was a very active 10 meter ham in Danvers, Massachusetts, during the period of Class A, B and C licenses. He was an arthritic quadriplegic. He was wheel chair bound, lived alone, and required visiting help to get into and out of bed and have his meals prepared and served.

He had a Class C [Conditional] license. He learned to copy 'read' CW in his head although he did not have the ability to send. I don't think he would consider a lawsuit appropriate.

Some of the OTs on this list may have worked him. W1JFS, Les MacCrakin. God Rest His Soul.

Well I described a number of alternatives to learning and he persists in saying he cannot learn code. Now I have not insulted him that I know of (although it's difficult to predict what one might take as an insult). However, if someone truly is incapable of learning code, then they are unable to learn to understand the spoken word and to speak. The fact that he can speak and understand the spoken word means he can learn code at the basic level of 5wpm. He is his own biggest enemy.

A completely deaf person can speak and read lips but he/she still cannot even hear Morse code. What you need to understand is that something that seems normal to you is missing in some people. If an amateur radio license required dunking a basketball, could you do it? As one who can dunk a basketball, I can tell you all you need is enough will and effort and you can do it.

I was unaware of your offers of alternative measures as it wasn't in this thread. I agree, if he has alternatives at his disposal, it's on him to take advantage of them.

May word begin to look for the accololypse I agree with every word in a post from Dr Death

aloouth the use of this story doess illustrate what is called in some circle "cripple casts" where the more visible handicaps claim if they greater entitlement to accomodation and as I have said it has been disucussed aclu is not interested and a few people I know are looking for an antonry to take it on, however few are willing as long as the FCC contiues to dangle the likehood they would act in less than the 5 or years prusuing that would take

With deaf people use can use a light or a subwoofer for them to copy code. I don't want to stereotype deaf people, but I have found many of them to be hooked on entitlements and expect unreasonable accommodations. I have a relative that refuses to wear a hearing aid, and then gets angry when there are communication problems. This person is physically able to work; yet sits around on my tax dollars playing the feel sorry for me card.

Deaf persons have succussfully completed the code portion of the testing at all levels of speed. Some use a vibrator attached to their wrist.
Others us a light. As mentioned elsewhere "never say never".

I do not have a personal problem with deaf people. If you would leave my post intact maybe you and others would comprehend that. You just want to turn what was an on topic post into a flame war. You are not worth the time and effort. <plonk>

But that certainly doesn't satisfy the letter of the regulations.
To do that, they must "copy by ear".

If I don my knee braces, I still can. Can you?

The point is that some things are possible for each individual and other things are impossible. Anybody who can't dunk a basketball or pass a MENSA exam should know how a person feels when they can't learn Morse code.
I personally think it would improve the ARS to only allow MENSA engineers to be a member. How does that make you feel?

One of the brightest engineers I know, who has a commercial FCC license and was the engineer at an AM broadcast station, couldn't get past 5wpm so he was condemned to Tech class for 30 years. He knows more about radio than any ten other hams.

Cecil as good as it is your analogy still fails thanks to the fact that if I can drunk (and I have no idea wether I can or not) it only means something In Basketball. now if one inabilty to duck a basketball barred them from all sports then you rise closer to the level of what

What you don't seem to realize is that dunking a basketball and knowing Morse code are equally useful in the ARS.

Not a correct analogy. For starters, completely deaf people have learned the Morse code. Flashing lights and pulse pads have served their needs. Just as they have learned to speak and read lips, they can learn alternative methods of using code.

The 5wpm level is more equivalent to dunking a basketball in a basket that is just above head height rather than regulation professional height. Under those conditions, anyone can dunk a basketball.

The biggest reasons people "cannot" learn code are very simple.

1. They don't really want to and so subconsciously resist.
2. They have been subjected to poor training methods.
3. No one's ever taught them correct practice methods.
4. They have developed unrealistic expectations of the level of effort required.
5. Due to bad experiences resulting from the above items, they've convinced themselves they can't learn and so create a self-fulfilling prophecy.

Every problem that Sal has described has afflicted almost every student of Morse code (except perhaps for the very rare code geniuses). Forgetting letters right after learning them? Been there, done that. Confusing letters? Been there, done that. I've had to bow out of QSOs because my brain freezes up and refuses to keep copying.

It took me 3 months of daily practice of an hour or more every day to get to 5wpm. That's over 90 hours. The average person only needs about 30 hours. I experienced every problem that "Sal" has mentioned. I eventually went on to master the 20wpm. That took 9 months of the same intensive daily practice, over 270 hours. Fortunately I wasn't hobbled by the expectation of learning it in a few weeks. Luckily no one had ever told me I could learn it in a few days or weeks. So I just kept at it for however long it took.

True enough but that accommodation has been accepted for a very long time.
The regulations also said that they must be by hand. A sending test hasn't been used in decades except as an accommodation for people with hearing problems, etc. The FCC itself had stopped administering a sending test before they turned the testing over to the amateur community.

But the letter of the law says they must receive Morse code by ear. Anything else is a violation of that law. It's try 5 years at 40minute per day, I frankly prefer not to do the math to come up with the nuber of hours and still NO sucess

now of course if you respond to me at all you blame my metohod or my unkonwn to you teachers etc.

everything to avoid the central issue why is Code knowledge more important than the rest of Ham radio combined that is the issue of course I say more important since their question in pools about cw that tip it from equal to the rest to more important

Well the accommodation has been used and accepted for a very long time. The regs also say send by hand but no one has administered a sending test in decades except as an accommodation to individuals with difficulty in receiving.

Your life guard analogy doesn't hold up either. Instead it would be like allowing the life guard to use a row boat instead of swimming out to the victim.

You have just admitted that the Morse code test has been irreversibly compromised already. A deaf person holding an HF ham license cannot hear an SOS so the entire purpose of forcing him to learn Morse code is bogus. He is going to be using a digital mode, not sitting there with his hand on the speaker waiting to feel an SOS from a sinking ship that doesn't even have CW capability anymore.

Believe me, this guy shed tears when he couldn't get past 10 wpm. He has a physical mental tick every few seconds, akin to epilepsy, that causes him to lose time. He cannot speak one minute of continuous speech much less receive one minute of continuous Morse code. When he speaks, some of the time is silence while his brain is out to lunch. But when he does speak it is worth ten times the average person's utterances. He is an engineering genius.

That's what they are replacing the CW test with, the slam dunk. Now all

I think most of the RRCB regulars have pretty much ignored him as of late.
It's his pathetic RRAP buddies that followed him here that keep him fueled

No, it does satisfy the alternative methods of copying code as

Before replaceing the resistor, you better check two things:

If the resistor was a carbon composition resistor then it maybe just sufficient to replace the resistor. Otherwise check any caps that the resistor maybe connected to.

The problem with a lot of those old radios that have sat for long periods are the electrtolytic caps are probably not very good anymore.
Many radios of that vintage used carbon composition resisitors. They tend to absorb moisture and that causes them to lower their value.

Why not get rid of the code? Really, why not make the written exam easier? Just make exams covers enough to make sure some idiot doesn't kill themselves or some body else.

Have only one class of license called "Amateur Radio License", with full access to all bands. No matter what class a person holds now it would be renewed as only "Amateur Radio License". Novices would be grandfathered in.You couldn't get any worse class of ham than we do with the 20wpm wonders.

You have obviously not been on 20 Meters in some time.
14.275 is THE NEW toilet bowl of ham radio.

Some say it may even come close to soon taking the place of the INFAMOUS 14.313 mHz of years ago.

Just park your dial there and you'll hear a whole cast of rejects, both old and new, some of em from the old 14.313 freq history also and parts of 75 Meters.

CB'ers take note also - these are all USB freqs.

As the guy in Florida (I think his name was "Bagel Bernie") used to say: "ENJOY - Ya've earned it!"

Note: I have not yet heard the infamous "Bathroom Man" of Year's past on there (He was in Az by the way) but hopefully he will be joining the fray soon too!

Throw it away and get a new Kenwood opened up for 11 meters. Then learn to make simple wire dipole (468 over the freq,then divide by 2 for each leg) and get on the band of your choice. With the new rigs having automatic tuners you only need to be kind of close with your antenna.

I don't think you insulted me -- it was whoever said I don't deserve a license.

However, I do think it's a bit of a stretch to say that I can learn code just because I can speak and understand words. You should see what my raw typing looks like before I go back and fix it prior to hitting send (or should I say "sned," which was what I typed the first time -- typically four or five of those per line.) It's pretty bad.

I'm thinking of trying to learn the dits and dahs as strings of written dots and dashes on paper. According to everything I've been told or exposed to, that is not recommended. All the training says the goal is to perceive each letter as a consolidated unit of sounds without any intermediate translation steps. Well, since I'm positive that isn't working, particularly for characters of four or more elements ... maybe a graphical alternative is in order.

The ARRL VEC will not premite that in code even as an accomdation

but it isn't allowed by the largest organiztion involed in code

You have extracted something from my post that was never there. No one has ever said that the purpose of hams knowing code was to hear a ship sending an SOS.

In addition, he might have a light rigged for cw, which he could see as he moved about the room.

Digital modes fail on a regular basis due to static, auroras, etc. It's a good idea to have a non-voice, non-computer alternative.

Since the late 80's, he could have gotten a medical waiver for the speeds higher than 5wpm. His case proves my point though. i.e. He did learn the spoken language despite his problem. He did learn the 5wpm despite his problem. His problem manifests itself in dealing fluently with the spoken language and also manifests itself in dealing with higher code speeds.

A problem that would affect the ability to learn code affects the ability to deal with the aural/spoken language.

1. Incorrect training methods. These abound. There are more bad ones than good ones around.
2. Incorrect practice methods. Many teachers and students don't really know how it should be practiced. They just muddle along. Among other things, that means daily practice not just getting together with a teacher once a week. It also means breaking the daily practice session into 15 minute increments so the brain doesn't fatigue.
3. Unrealistic expectations is quite possibly the biggest one. People think they should be able to learn it in a few days or a couple of weeks. It takes the average person 30 hours to get to 5wpm. At an hour per day, that's one month. A more comfortable pace is 1/2 hour per day for two months. (It took me closer to 90 hours.)
4. Disapppointment created by the above issues causing a person to believe they can't do it thus creating a self-fulfilling prophecy.
5. Not wanting to do it so they end up fighting themselves subconsciously.
6. Negative reinforcement by those who tell them that code testing should be eliminated because it is "useless". Anyone who's seen HF trashed by static or aurora should know better.

It was part of a rebuttal to someone who said that requiring 5wpm code was Typing and reading are visually based. So it makes sense that those are a problem. But do you have difficulty saying words or hearing them? Just because the typing is a problem, doesn't mean that the aural/spoken is a problem. Reading/writing is a different activity than hearing/speaking and uses different parts of the brain. While I can't imagine a graphical method working for a dyslexic since it's visual, who can say for sure.

By the way, I still have problems with longer characters now and then or combinations of certain characters. I had an awful time trying to copy a call sign in a contest that began with SH5 (3 dots, 4 dots, 5 dots).

Recently I can across a "music" track that is about 5 minutes long that teaches Morse by the sound of the characters.

If you would find this helpful I may be able to get a copy of it and place it on an ftp server for you.

Outsourcing started way back in the 70's. It has only been in the last decade that anyone in the media and public paid any attention to it.
When layoffs became common place after the dotcom bust then the public finally realized that the barn door was open and nearly half the cows are gone. A bit to late.

I'm Still Spamming

(Elton John/Bernnie Taupin/Mark C. Morgan, kb9rqz)
[From the album "Markie's I.Q. is Too Low For Zero"]

You could never know what it's like
When you marry a jewish/polish transexual bulldyke
And if there's a cold lonely light that shines from you You'll wind up like the wreck I hide behind those sockpuppets I use in
newsgroups

And did you think this fool could never win
Well look at me, I'm spamming again and again
I got a taste of love in a simple way
And if you need to know why I'm still spamming Wismen just post away

Don't you know I'm still spamming better than I ever did Deluding myself that I look like a true survivor, whining like a little

kid
I'm still spamming after all this time
Picking up the pieces of my life with Wismen on my mind

I'm still spamming yeah yeah yeah
I'm still spamming yeah yeah yeah

Once I never could hope to win
You post down the road leaving me to spam again
The threats you made were meant to cut me down
And if the newsgroups were just a circus I'd be a clown by now

Don't you know I'm still spamming better than I ever did Deluding myself that I look like a true survivor, whining like a little

kid
I'm still spamming after all this time
Picking up the pieces of my life with Wismen on my mind

I'm still spamming yeah yeah yeah
I'm still spamming yeah yeah yeah

"hungry" and "homeless" people are there by their own choice or by choices they have made in their past. The welfare system doesn't work, otherwise there wouldn't be 5 1/2 MILLION people dependant on it.

Yes..... I have a problem with the system when 28% of my net profits get paid to the feds to support lazy dead beats, and another 4% goes to the state for the same.

I am retired Military, I served my country for 22 years, My father was born in this country by the grace of god, and couldn't speek the language until he was in grade school. When I retired from the miltary, I started my company and have worked my ass off for 10 years to get to where I am now, finally starting to make a comfortable living.

There are too many jobs out there for folks to be unemployed, homeless, or hungry. Those that are unemployable are those who by their own choice, can't seem to show up to work, let alone on time...those who can't seem to show up for work sober and not hung over, and those who can't seem to be able to pass a drug screening. If I could find somebody that COULD meet those minimum standards and had a little common sense and a desire to learn, I would hire them in a heartbeat, and they will earn good money.

They have made their choices.... I for one am damned tired of having to foot the bill for their irresponsibility, lazyness, and feigned ignorance(you can't be ignorant and be able to sponge off the system)

(Reagan's Welfare Queen was a myth, you know.)

When a company moves offshore they do not reduce prices to the end users. They increase their profits. Most big companies don't even pay income taxes because they are legally running out of a drawer in some Carribean island.

Eventually the middle class will be gone due to outsourcing. That will be the end of the USA.

Hey 352,

So far so good with mine. They are cheaper than a lot of radios,but hopefully it will keep on working. I went from a Galaxy Pluto to the 200. I like the extra power but could have done without the lighted background.

i hate to play devil's advocate, but i can read CW with spectral analysis software. several of us on the very low bands are doing that.

yes, the chances of some deaf guy "hearing" an SOS is pretty slim.

it's sad that people get alienated from hobbies. it's also a fact of life. i downloaded some composition software, and it turned out i SUCK at making digital music.

i can play the second movement of Moonlight Sonata, but that's about it.

i remember this girl in chemistry class. she studied 5 hours for a test. i studied 10 minutes. my score was 30 points higher than hers. i wasn't necessarily smarter than her, i just knew how to study, and same thing with CW.

i learned Morse Code at age 15. i got up to 25 WPM, perfect copy. i made QSOs, did a few contests, and quit for 9 years.

i now copy at 18 WPM, which makes me think i learned it like it was a language.

some suggestions. use Farnsworth, copying characters at 18 WPM is less annoying.

make QSOs! would you learn a language by using audio CDs, or would you talk to native speakers?

find out what the format of the test QSO is!

i didn't study much for my novice code test. i had no decent tapes, and i had to borrow my dad's computer to use software. computers back then were $2000 and no kid had one.

so anyway, i use Supermorse as recommended by my club. i get to the test, realize my code sucks, and luck out because they do a Supermorse QSO.

it's easy in today's world: free practice MP3s and $50 computers.

if you are contesting or DXing, CW rules.

HF phone contests will drive you insane, esp if you want to win an award.
even 10 meter phone was wall to wall stations from 28.300 to 29.000. i had phased Yagis, and had to go way high, or end up stomping on someone.

if you want to run DX, good luck with 100 watts on SSB.

That may be what someone told you, but it was not the reason. The reason was that it was part of an overall "radio education" and it was one of the fundamentals of radio even in the 1950s.

Back when I was young and interested I lost my desire to learn code when I started monitoring the ham bands. It all seemed too formal, and then like it is now, you have a large segment that think you are trash if you don't have the highest obtainable license. Even this thread proves it. You have a large contingent hell bent on having CW testing with any class, even though I never plan to use CW. I could get my Tech ticket, but then all I'm going to hear is that I'm a no-code tech. I rather be a CBer as we have no cast system.

You're a tough guy.

During a more civilised time a company went into business to provide jobs and make profits and to be part of a community. Nowadays corporations are extranational, have no local ties and just milk markets dry and move on.

Corporations pay way less than half th cost of running governments, even though they are the major beneficieries of what governments provide. This is because we let them write their own rules.

Most hams welcome CBers and it is only a few which don't. As a show of good will, I am inviting all CBers who have 2M gear or who have signed up for echolink to go ahead and use my repeater at 146.835 MHz or to use the K9GO-L link with echolink. Don't worry about a call, or else use the designated guest call of W4NTI to get on. No real ham would use that call and that's why we use it for guest ops.

Enjoy.

First not every homeless and hungry person is there by their own choice. There are those that the system chrushes and grinds into pieces just for beign at the wrong place at the wrong time. The welfare system does work. Yes decision and actions in all our past Corporations do pay taxes. The expense of taxes is often passed on where feasable. Often these are in higher selling prices. Often taxes do intrude on profits. When they do, there are steps taken to regain that profit. Outsourcing is a means of regaining profit. Cutting benefits and maintaining salaries is another. There are other means also.

Dr. D:
Since I no longer have antenna, mikes, book, and it doesn't work, I checked them out on eBay and they went for $300 up for both units. Of course the working ones went for closer to $500 but $300 would do. They sure get the bids! I can see why. I love the feel and the look of them.

You are right! Corporations don't pay the cost of running governments.
They pay the cost of usurping governments!

I have problems with most characters of four or more elements length.
Exceptions are <period> and <Q>, for some reason. As I have said here, after hearing dit-dah-dah-dit identified, whatever it is, I cannot subsequently hear it and know what it is. I think my own first name initial, <J> is some combination of three-and-one or one-and-three, but I can't remember it. Oh yeah -- I know <V> because the dit-dit-dit-dah sounds like the 1812 overture.

I dial a telephone with two fingers -- one pushing the buttons and one holding my place in the phone book, since I have to go back and look at the number repeatedly. Yes, I do memorize phone numbers, but I may invert the digits when I try to dial them. This is a royal pain in the ass.

When I joined the Navy in 1962, one of our tests was for clerical skill, which involved inspecting columns of numbers and calling the entries on each line either ALIKE or DIFFERENT. I scored a 35, lower than anybody I ever met. I wanted to be a Yeoman (clerical duties). Instead, they sent me to ET school and I've never looked back.

I'll read any responses, but I think I'm pretty well talked out on this one.

As long as the law permits it :~)

Our MW and LW bands are both used with AM, our VHF band uses FM. Technically it is possible to use any mode on the frequencies, but not legally.
Because such bands are always used with AM or FM, they often get referred to by the mode used... which can be misleading.

> MW, LW and VHF are just different frequencies.

Bands of frequencies.
I don't know how many people in the UK still listen to MW or LW when VHF broadcasts, using FM, provide much clearer audio and stereo broadcasts.

Peter.

I was thinking Midland, but it was a long time ago when I saw it. Could be a Maxon, your guess is as good as mine. But that's the only thing I have ever seen it used for unless it was a modification someone made. I think some of the power lead plugs in the past had small screws allowing you access to the inside of the plug. What I don't get is why CBs still have a PA switch and jack, even the cheapest of the cheap have them. I rarely see anyone have it hooked up and can count on one hand the amount of times I've seen it used. I'm glad the switch is there though, it comes in handy.

We are only allowed AM and SSB on 11 meters in the US, but many so called export radios have FM though rarely used and cw mode for the supposed 10 meter radios that hams would never buy and easily convert to cover 10, 11, and 12 meters.

I worded it wrong, but thats what I meant to say.

There are always holdouts on dying modes of communications. The "CW vs. no CW test" war is raging on in the US as an example.

The 'newer' vesion of the Cobra 200 has Toshiba finals in it. Apparently it was the 'older' ones that were having problems with smoked finals and drivers. The new version also has a limiter in it, so max output on SSB is now about 125 watts or so

Sure, lawnmower man. You mow lawns in the summer and shovel driveways in the winter; and spend the rest of your time in your little singlewide.

> Wimpy? Are you gonna stalk me again, kOOk?

BWHAHAHA. Speaking of stalking; tell everyone how you drove 6 hours to ring someone's doorbell and then run away. That's pretty priceless; sissyboi. How many times did you have to stop to siphon gas for your shitbox plymouth?

I'm kind of surprised that you don't have one dedicated to how you murdered your daughter, sissyboi. Hey Pussy Parks - when you gonna come drive to my house and ring my doorbell and run away; like you did with Doug? Or do you only pick on people that are weak and frail?

Hey Scott Gilbert, do you recall sending me this via email?

My biggest issues are temper management, and learning not to brag about my good fortunes in life. I suspect the issue with bragging is due to some sort of deep rooted issue with self esteem, but I am no head shrinker. And temper management, I don't know why I have such issues controlling my temper. Wrong combo of meds every morning, I guess. :-) I actually am looking forward to kicking this guy's ass; which is probably something I should learn to control. I will try to control it after I eat his lunch. Frank, well he is just a moron. His new thing is that he wants to turn it around and have me come to Washington. Like I would waste frequent flier miles on that moron. Looks like enfotrust (www.enfotrust.com) is back on the fast track again with the purchase of my company (www.handcast.biz). I met a few weeks ago with the CIO and with a VP; and supposedly the CEO was passionate about wanting to buy handCast. Then of course he left for Israel. Well, 11 am, it's 82 degrees, and the kids are bugging me to take them to Six Flags. Welcome to the weekend. Fuck, I don't want to stand in lines in the sun all day.

There's a bunch more if you want to continue.

ROTFPMPL

Have you seen the FIFA rankings? I am not that much into football but my Son, who seems to remember all names and figures, shocked me with how highly America are ranked by FIFA.
When you refer to football, you do not mean what the rest of the World calls football... the sport involving a foot and a ball :~)
We get American Football, Basketball, etc. on UK TV at night. It probably ranks about the same here as Football (soccer) does in America.

Do you get any of those extreme TV programs over there, where they show strange TV from other countries? In one, they showed a thin Chinese man putting away many large bowls of noodles... he must have had hollow legs.

Regards,
Peter.

You seem really upset. I can only guess that the reason you're posting is because you messed with your CB and it's in the repair shop again. You CB'ers need to learn to keep the covers on your rigs and not tamper with the electronics inside. You're not smart enough to know how they work.

Happy to Help :-)

You CB retards go where you're NOT WANTED: the lower end of the 10 meter ham band.

Get your retarded CB ass's off 10 meters this instant. We don't want to hear your farting and belching communications. Keep it on 27.185 where it belongs, then maybe we'll consider leaving RRCB. Ten-Four?

Get your retarded CB ass's off ten meters this instant. We don't want to

8095. Need help hooking PA horn up to CB

OK, so I have a Cobra DXIII CB installed in my truck.

http://techshop.earthlink.net/p20805:S1151622

It has always seemed to work fine in CB mode.

I bought one of these PA horns to mount under the hood to use as a PA speaker.

http://butleroutdoorstore.com/index.asp?PageAction=VIEWPROD&ProdID=1433

Both the CB and the PA horn have the usual standard mini jacks on them. Trouble is, when I try to use it, all I get is a horrible piercing feedback whine when I press the mic.

At first I thought there was something wrong with the speaker, but when I plug it into the external speaker jack of the CB, it works fine as an external speaker. It even worked when I plugged my Ipod headphone jack into it. So there can't be anything wrong with the speaker.

So then I assumed it was my CB that was broke. My dad has the identical model CB, so I tried his out and it did the exact same thing. (terrible whine in PA mode)

So either the Cobra DXIII doesn't work as a PA system, or I am missing something simple.

I didn't have the speaker anywhere near the mic, so it's not like it was picking up feedback through that.

Anyone ever hear of this happening?

Maxon, Maxcom, Controm, Midland... like many other "brands", same crud with a different name on it.

I decided to take a look at the diagrams, it was Maxon...
Maxon MX-1000
Maxon MX-2000
both have the middle pin wired for memory.

But the circuits used, or variations of them, are probably in several other brands of CB. One company designs and makes, many have their name placed on the front.

I can only remember ever seeing one or two people with it set up. More often, people think their radio is knackered because they accidentally knocked the PA switch.
Maybe it is there as a cheap addition to the function list. Like with the latest software, boasting about all the things it does, when the user will not even use 5% of the functions. But the list looks impressive, and maybe sells the product.

We have FM, it's all we are allowed.
America will not make FM legal and we will not make AM legal.

So, where does that leave the "illegal CB causes interference" argument?
Simple, AM and SSB must cause interference because they are illegal here, and FM must cause interference because it is illegal in America.
And, as America have a distance rule, once you reply to someone beyond that distance, you will start to cause interference.

The answer is simple... as illegal CB causes interference, make it all legal so it will not cause interference :~)

Hm-m-m. I can hear that in my head. ... thought it was the 1812 Overture.

BT

Playing the selection is mighty convincing: Ol' Ludwig pops off some V's right at the start. I do not seem to have the 1812 Overture handy, so here I tread ever-so-lightly ... not being much for knowing good music. I can run bits of 1812 through my head, too, but not much. (I just get started and run out of headroom.) I shall seek it out. TKS & 73

32 bit. Not really a pain to install, but I did have to do a clean install.
Would not upgrade, but that's fine, as I normally don't upgrade anyway. As I'm sure you know, it is glitchware, and I don't recommend anyone installing it on their main, and certainly not on their only computer. This is build 5384, the newest out as of last weekend. I only have one 64 bit machine, so I chose not to try it as drivers for those machines have usually proven even less stable. Good luck with yours!

That is exactly what is happening... With the unit set to PA, turn the volume on the CB all the way down to nothing, and key the mike... Bet the squeal is gone... Now turn up the volume to just where is starts to squeal, then back it down just a little. That point is as loud as you will be able to get the PA...

I should have mentioned in my original post that even with the volume turned all the way down to the lowest it will go (without shutting the CB off completely) it still produces the same exact whining noise at the same ear-piercing decibel level the instant I key the mic.

The volume control doesn't seem to have any effect on it whatsoever.

I've been looking for a flat black colored person but have been unable to find any. I also have not found anyone who is white as a sheet of white paper. Alas, all I have found are people who vary in shades of brown earthtones. By looking at a spectrometer display, it is actually hard to tell one

OK... This is a long shot, but if you have a pair of headphones with the mini-plug, try plugging that into the PA jack on the radio. Key it and see if it still squeals. Keep the mike away from the headphones, and don't wear them! Might go deaf if it does squeal... :) Try adjusting with the volume with the headphones attached...

One other thought... It is the stock mike? Power mikes don't work so well with PA systems...

So lets get this straight. The above poster is a "sicko" for doing nothing more than posting statements YOU have made at various times.

YOU claim you are not sick even though you admit to putting dicks in your mouth and ass and who knows where. Yes indeed Markie, you are sick and twisted. YOU are part of the reason our society has declined.

Interesting! Most likely there is way too much Mic gain.

Question? Why has it been since CB started, there is a PA on them anyway, no other radio, Ham ,Marine or Aircraft had it, oh yes that's funny a pilot talking over a PA system.

Unfortunately there is no gain knob. I asked a few other places and some other people thought I might be using a powered mic as well. That is not the case, as the only place to adjust the volume is right on the CB itself.

I will try the earphone thing previously mentioned to see if I can eliminate the speaker as the culprit. A friend also has a higher quality Cobra CB, I will maybe just try the speaker with his to see if it has the same effect.

Thanks guys.

We were discussing that in another thread. Even on the cheapest units on the market they always have a PA setup. You would think they would want to save a few pennies per unit not to have it. But the switch comes in handy for many other things.

there would love to hear your climax. Add some echo to it too, and top it all off with a roger beep.

Even funnier, the government is NOT the APA and deems homosexuality a non mental disorder as a way of being PC and having a larger pool of raw recruits for the war in Iraq. They also allow convicted felons to serve in Iraq, something they have never done in the past. If I were to rob a bank, I could serve (I think it's 6 years) in the military and I would have all my rights reinstated.

I never cared for the sick fuck, let's tally up some reasons.
1. This is a radio NG and all he talks about is sex.
2. This group was somewhat quiet before he came and brought his groupies from RRAP.
3. He is not smart enough to figure out that he is killfiled some 15 or so times, yet humps my leg with every post.
4. Let's not forget he is a self admitted liar.
a. Kentucky Colonel.
b. Works for the government as an advisor.
c.Works for the government as tech support.
d. Claims to have collage education, yet can't spell or form coherent sentences.

I could go on all day, but we know who we are dealing with, don't we Fred?

lets not and say we did. :)
I've already got him (among others) kill-filed in such a way that they cannot avoid it, unless they change news services. However, the number of "anonymous news feeds" is dropping yearly and pretty soon, he'll have no choice but to post from 1 of 2 places:
1. a known cybercafe/library/wireless hotspot
2. his home (his ISP).

1 will get him banned when the provider starts getting shitcanned and the other, well, that will leave him with no service in short order.

AND, it would help NOT to reply or quote to him/them in the future (increases S/n ratio).

just my thoughts.

Well this could be the nail in the coffin for Mark. Since I have him kill filled, all you would have to do is forward his original post along with headers to his ISP. They will pull his account for wanting to murder someone, his ISP might even show this to the local police to see if he could be brought up on charges (ISP's don't play around anymore with these type of terrorist threats).

you are calling for thier murder

Oh well, maybe some people didn't know to send complaints to Abuse@Hughes.Net or techsupport@Hughes.Net Say as you want Mark, but if you stopped responding to them, stopped cross posting, just plain used common sense all this crap would stop.
I don't want to see you lose your internet access, but this crap of cross posting and replying to cross posts has to stop. I bought a new computer and have had to start adding both you and your followers to my kill file, so take this as constructive criticisms, stop

responding and maybe they'll go away.

Not bad! Funny you should mention, I was just talking to a couple of friends and my brother in-law about a trout fishing trip at the end of August or beginning of September. In the mean time I'm going to take the bike up to Tahoe and then head out from there and do a little stream fishing for a couple of days.

This was a new on-line ad placed in Philadelphia Inquirer and Philadelphia Daily News on www.philly.com (see full text below)
It was about the secret aerosols rooms in US. One could find it by searching "secret", say, in the ad section of philly.com.

Democracy can not function effectively without the informed public. As a former NASA Langley scientist working in the area of nanotechnology and nanoscale particles, I have been recently exposed to the establishment of secret gas-aerosol rooms inside of United States, at least in the Mid-Atlantic region (from Philadelphia to Virginia).

First, the highly irritant aerosols have surfaced at the NASA Langley Research Center in several safety accidents. Investigations were blocked, probably, because of lack of Congressional approval for such financially-lucrative research at NASA. Later, these aerosols had been encountered outside of NASA in Virginia, Delaware and Pennsylvania
This points out to yet another proliferation of originally-sensitive technologies into domestic American life to hurt and harass people without a proper oversight and much control. This amounts to torture, extra-judicial prosecution and authoritarian intimidation tactics. The use of such irritants and the operations of the secret gas-aerosol rooms are gross violations of human and constitutional rights of American citizens and various domestic and international laws.

----------Full text of an ad from philly.com----------
TORTURE IN USA: Secret Aerosol Rooms

US Scientist needs legal help dealing with the secret aerosols rooms (SARs) operated illegally in Philadelphia area, Newark (DE), Hampton and Williamsburg (VA). Highly volatile aerosols with and without bacterial content cause dry cough, airways and eyes irritation, chest pain and inflammation. FBI and Homeland Security associates are likely operators of SARs, while collaborators may be hotel staff and landlords, who get financial/material or other incentives. US citizens and kids are victims.

Close enough. Depends what I'm doing and where I'm talking. I'm a
